but a single grain of sand to what the future holds.

*and through my clear kaleidoscopic eyes,
the morning sun
magnifies my imperfections*

while evening rays
transmit an eerie glow
to my tiring lids . . .
which themselves
are made of darkness

through my window panes of sight
i have seen the seasons,
year after year

*each a little fainter
as the dust settles
a little thicker*

i have seen Summer

footsteps to my door

become fewer as sunshine is more inviting than musty classrooms

and musty professors

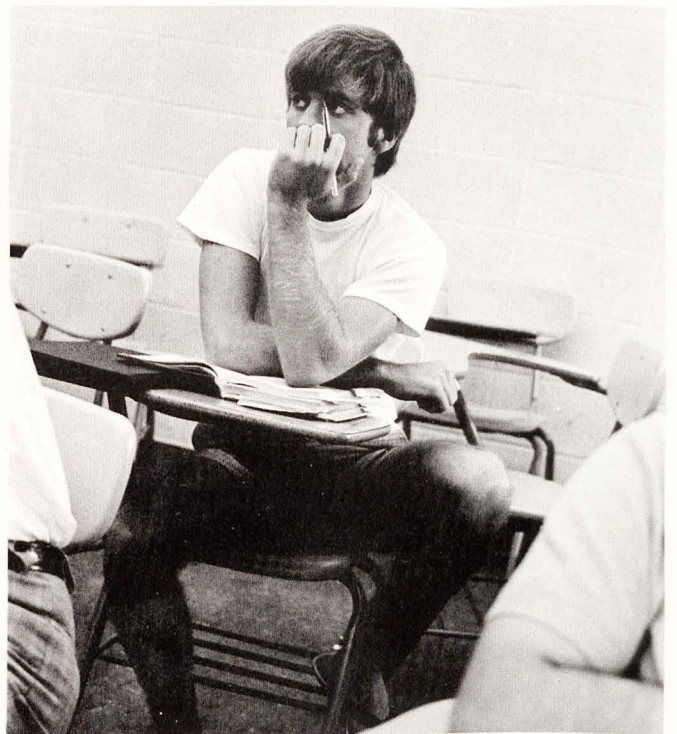

It seemed to be "share an umbrella" month as summer monsoons blew in.

the serenity is appalling.....

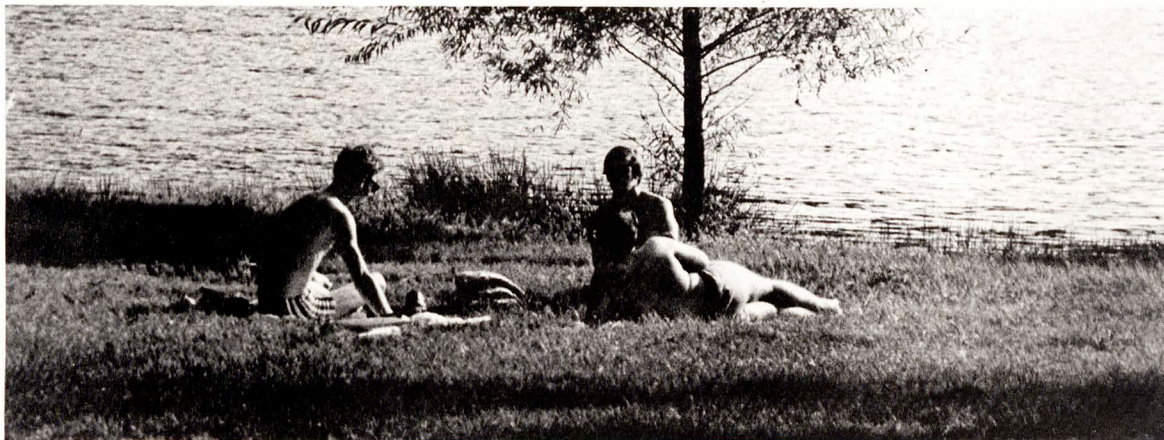

On a deserted campus, and I find myself with endless thoughts of futures, studying and playing . . . but mostly playing. I wonder . . . will August be the end of summer or the beginning of fall?

The only thing that's different in summer is the attire.

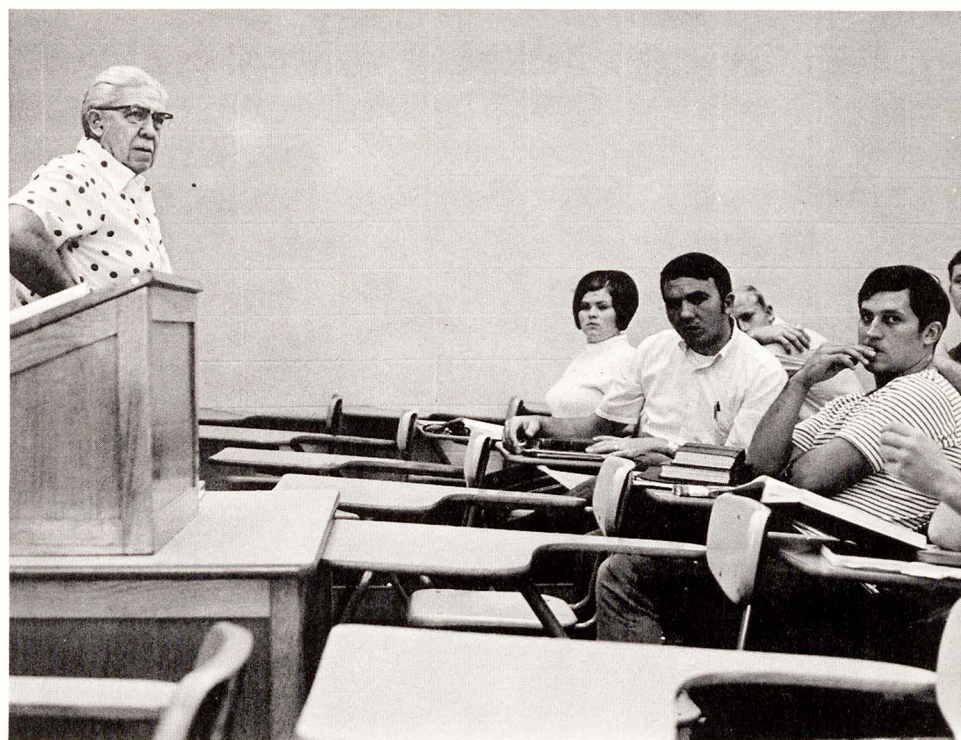

And when classes are over, there is a whole afternoon left to spend at Lake Wedington soaking up sun and watching girls.

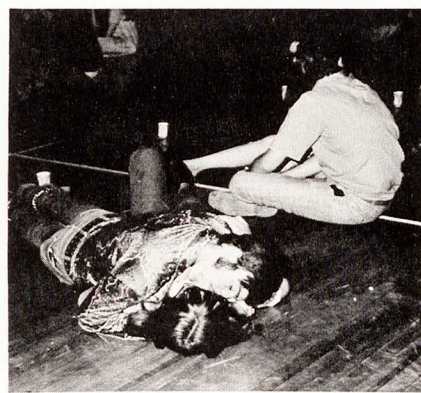

A good scrub down and renovating job cleaned up the stadium for the new season. After the first game it was as good as old.

Summer provides a chance for young and old to get together on campus.

The relaxed atmosphere is a relief for students and professors.

The rock festival had its ups and downs.

Next. Look at that face! We'll rank her low and use her as a filler later.

To make swift, sudden attack....

Rush (rush) vi. to repel, avert, orig., to mislead 1. a) to move or go swiftly or impetuously; dash, b) to dash recklessly or rashly 2. to make swift, sudden attack or assault.

You're really kidding me of course . . . you committed where first??

Work Week patience wore thin as the time ran out.

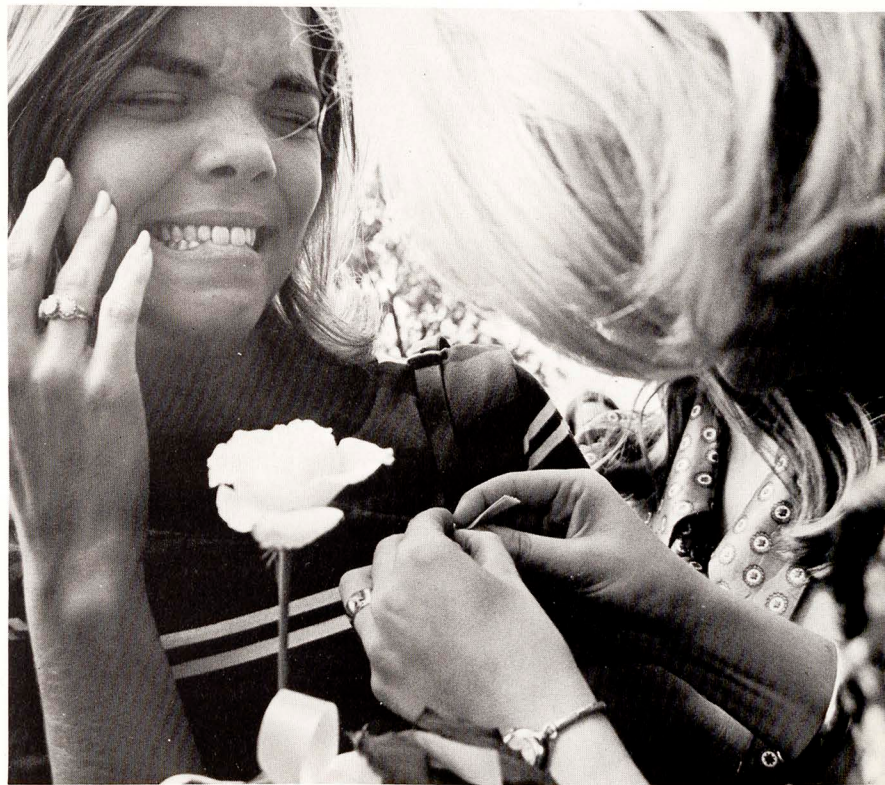

This sorority spent many hours preparing its musical extravaganza.

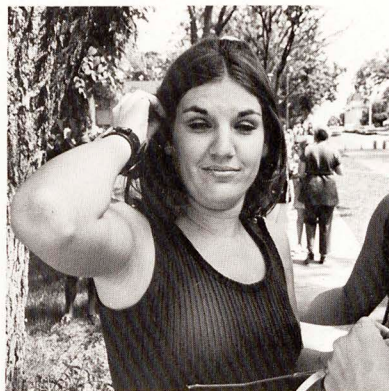

B. F. D.

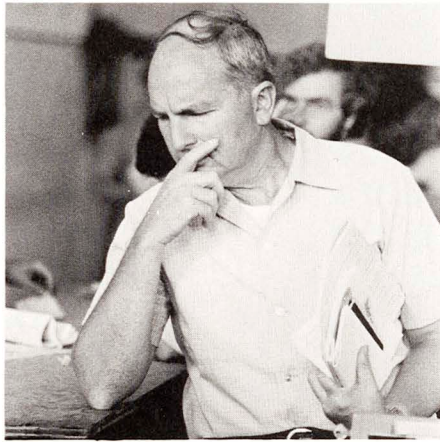

Rushees have been known to walk a total of five miles a day, talk 80 miles a minute, and sleep as little as three hours each night.

The final stop . . . a pledge ribbon; and the great feeling of relief.

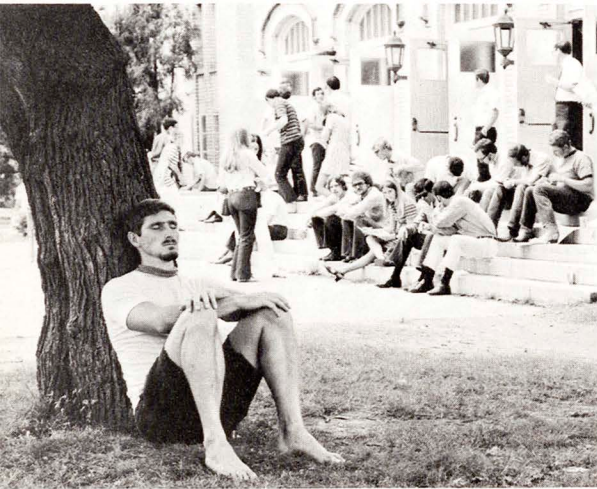

What am I doing here? I put them last!

Well, if a girl's PE class is all that's left . . .

What frustration....

Registration is frustration. Stand in a line, a waste of time. What! No packet, it's a racket. Closed my class, kiss whose ass?

You won't believe this guy in my PE class!

For that matter, you won't believe my roomie either!

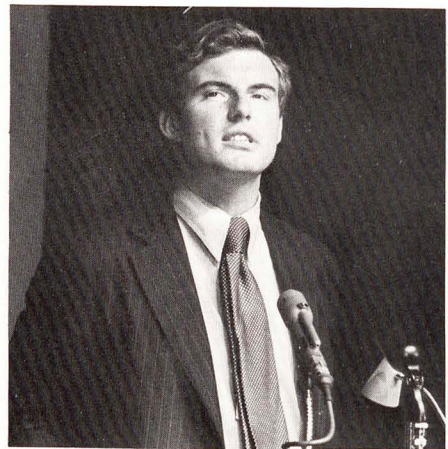

Saying good-bye to parents is a traumatic occasion . . . for freshmen.

Unpacking and un-racking is like a reluctant date . . . it takes two minutes to get out of the car and two hours to get up to the room.

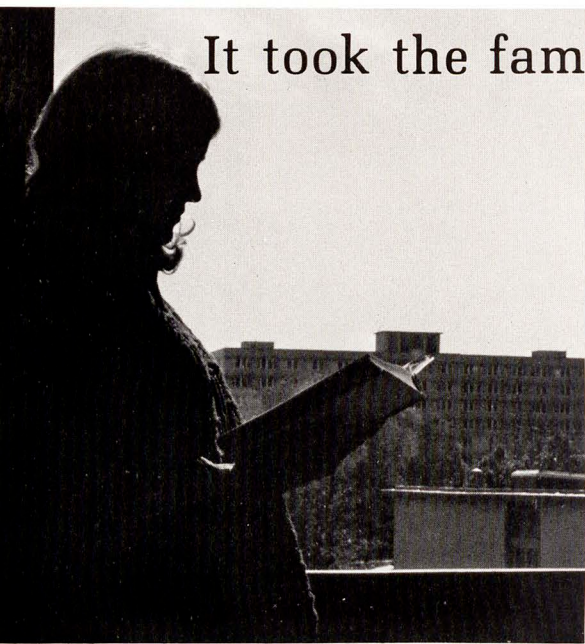

Kuntsler kicked off the Symposium season.

While Jim Guy Tucker returned the kick.

It took the familiar....

As far as most students were concerned, football season started when classes did. Yet it took the familiar Symposium advertisements and a pep rally to convince the students that along with the good comes the evil...

The biggest competition during rush was the addition of I Swepta Street fraternity.

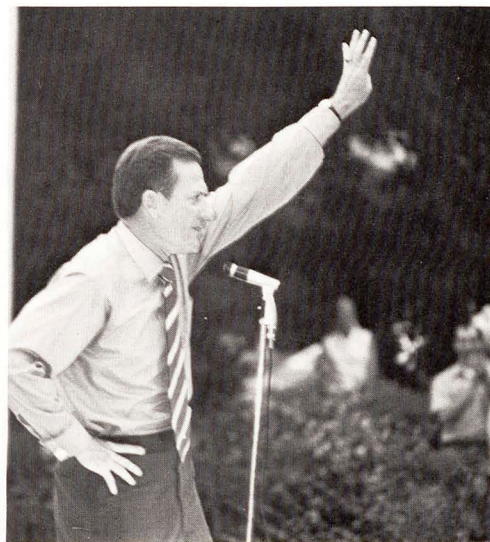

The Union Coffeehouse circuit opened with Mary Smith.

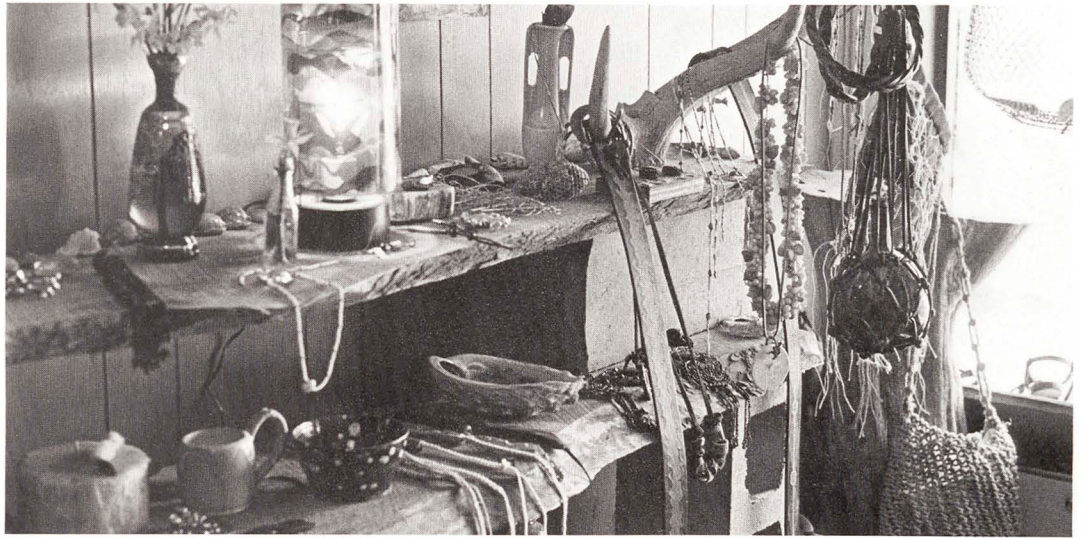

It's really a shame that the only time students can seem to get together on anything is when they converge for a pep rally or football game.

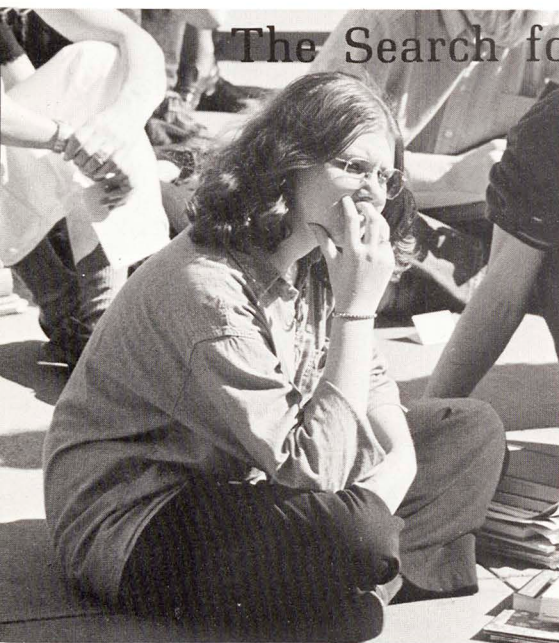

Ed Kinney salutes the Alphas and their Hoggish support.

Frank Broyles goes to the students for support, but do students get tickets for all the games?

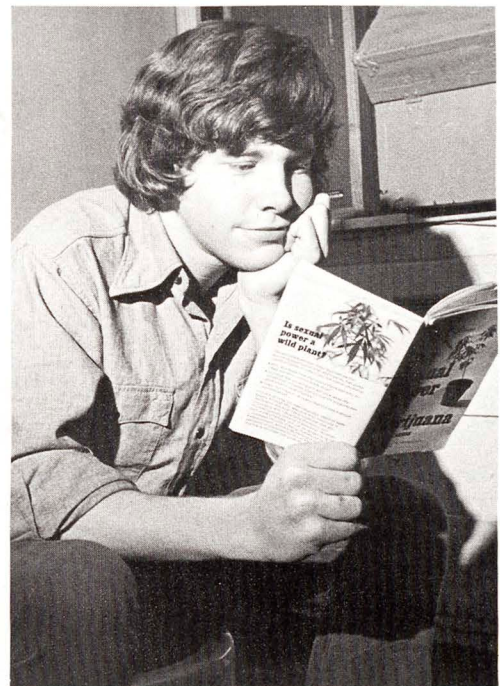

Leather and macrame handiworks are symbols of the individual's search for representative identity.

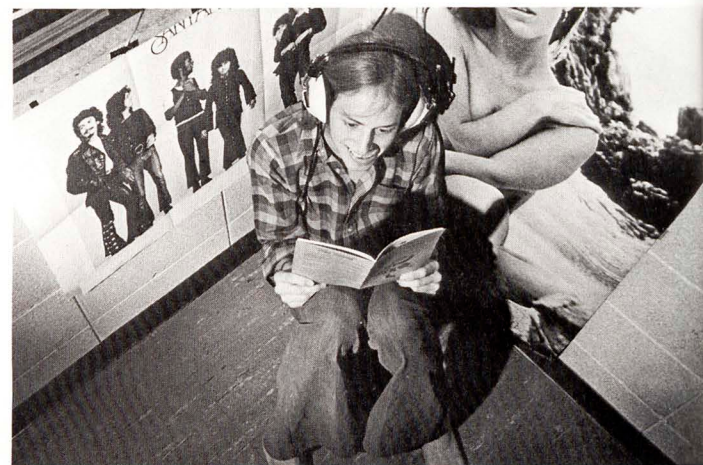

The Search for a Commitment

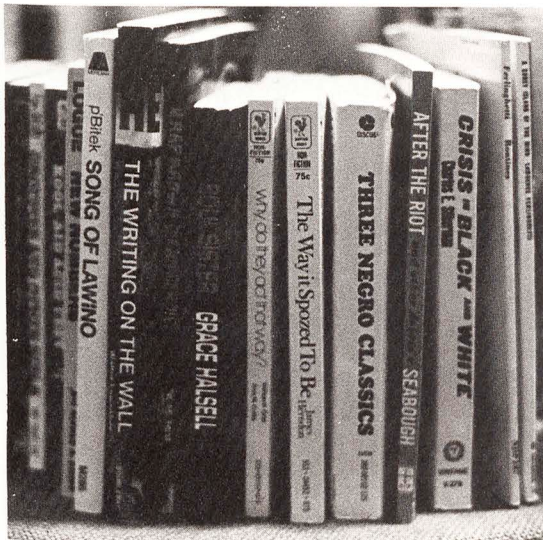

It is becoming harder and harder for the individual today to find his or her place in society because of the conflicting values that past generations have accumulated for us. Once faced with the problem of what to commit themselves to, the current individualists ask if there is anything in today's culture that is worth saving, worth committing themselves to. Many feel that there is not until America can combine current technology with some moral consciousness.

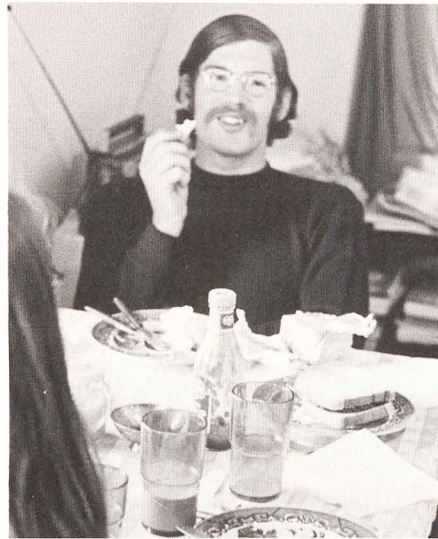

The benefits of grass outweigh the hazards.

In the lyrics of rock music satisfaction is often found.

Books have always been sources of knowledge.

A trend to vegetarianism is appearing.

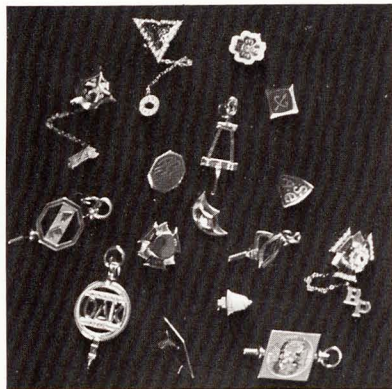

People often get relief from the tensions of today by spending time at a dance listening to the vibrations of a generation that is troubled.

KUDOS

[Gr. Kydos, glory, fame] noun-to pay attention to, hear, feel;
credit or praise for an achievement; honor; recognize; acknowledge.

WHO'S WHO

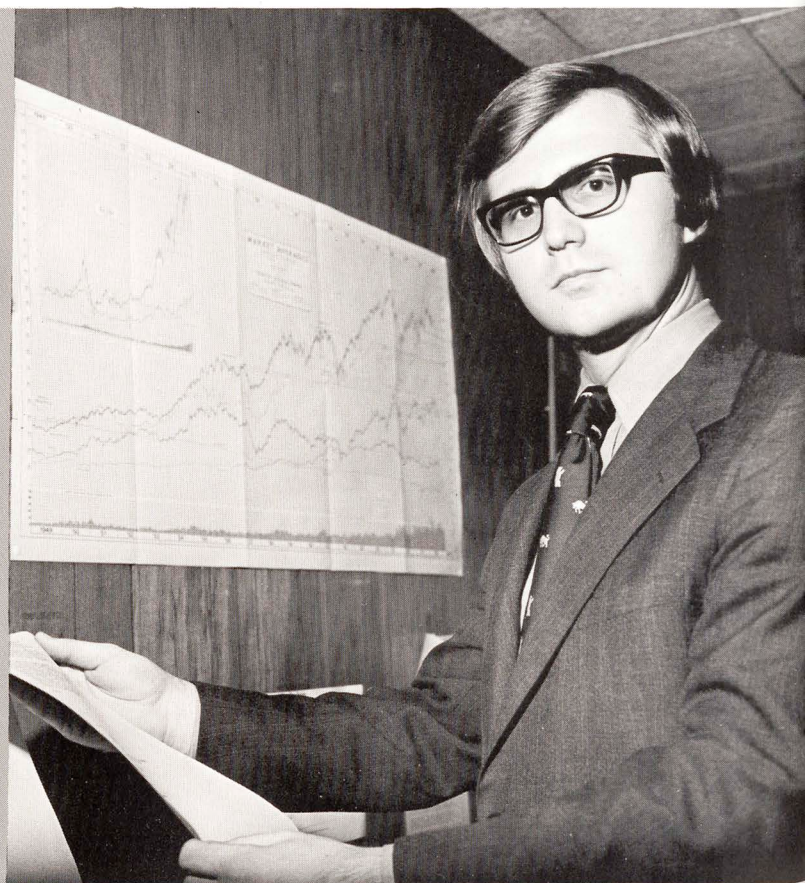

Margaret Akins

Margaret Akins has proven herself an outstanding student in the College of Education. Margaret's major, special education, has led to her interest in aiding underprivileged children through the "Big Sister-Little Sister" program. Her service has also been evidenced on this campus through her work on the AWS Legislative Board, Panhellenic Council, and her sorority.

WHO'S WHO

Curt Bradbury

As president of the Interfraternity Council, Curt Bradbury has worked to improve fraternity recruitment, as well as an improved system of orientation for all students. Curt believes that the Greek system must change with the times, and he has initiated action that has done much to bring fraternities on this campus up-to-date on the national trends in contemporary fraternity living.

WHO'S WHO

Marie Deacon

Marie Deacon was instrumental in attaining Card Keys for junior women. The parental survey which she conducted was an essential element in aiding the Board of Trustees to make a decision. Marie's contributions have also been evidenced in her role as a graduate resident, and in Student Government as an administrative assistant to the student government president.

WHO'S WHO

Geri Dugan

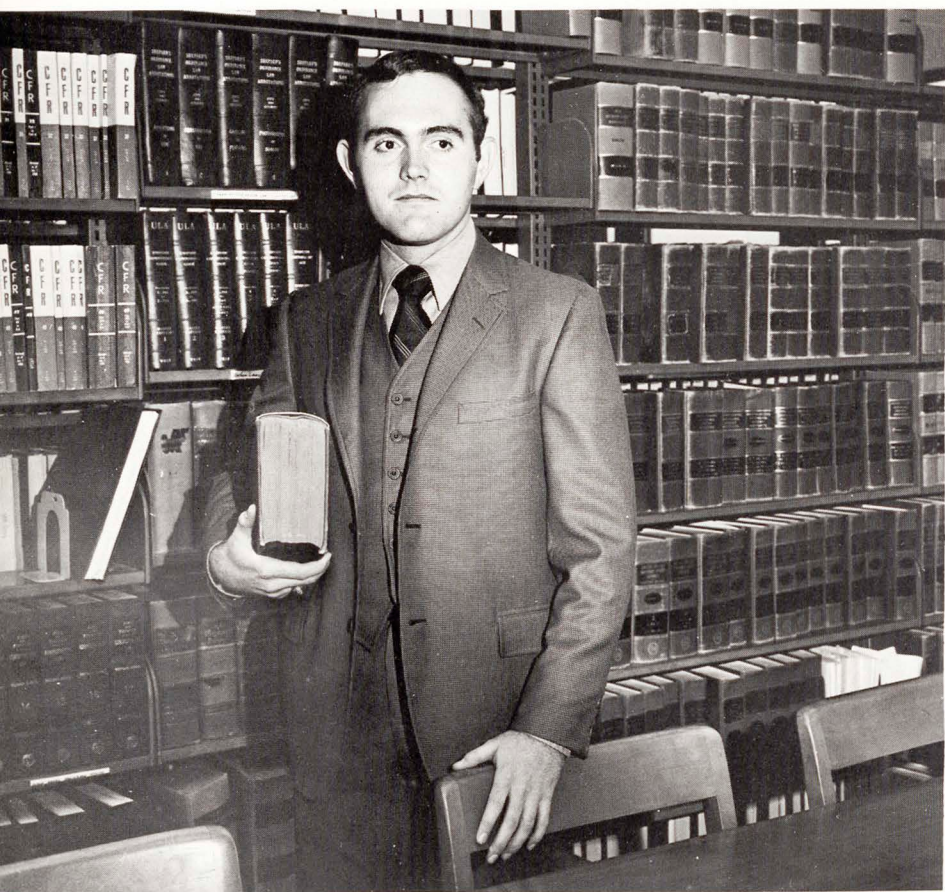

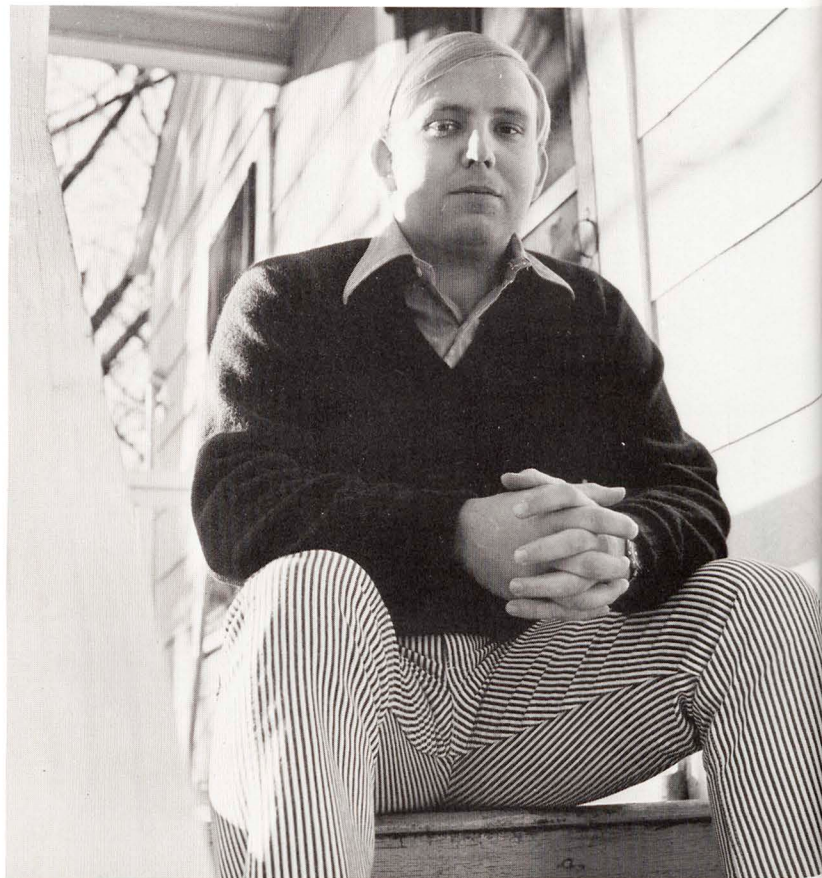

Geri Dugan has earned recognition through her work in Associated Women Students. Selected as its "Woman of the Year", Geri has worked as chairman of the Programs Committee and the Judicial Board. Geri has also served as secretary of Symposium 71, as well as representing her living group as a senator. Geri was a delegate to a women's symposium in Dallas.

WHO'S WHO

Danny Durning

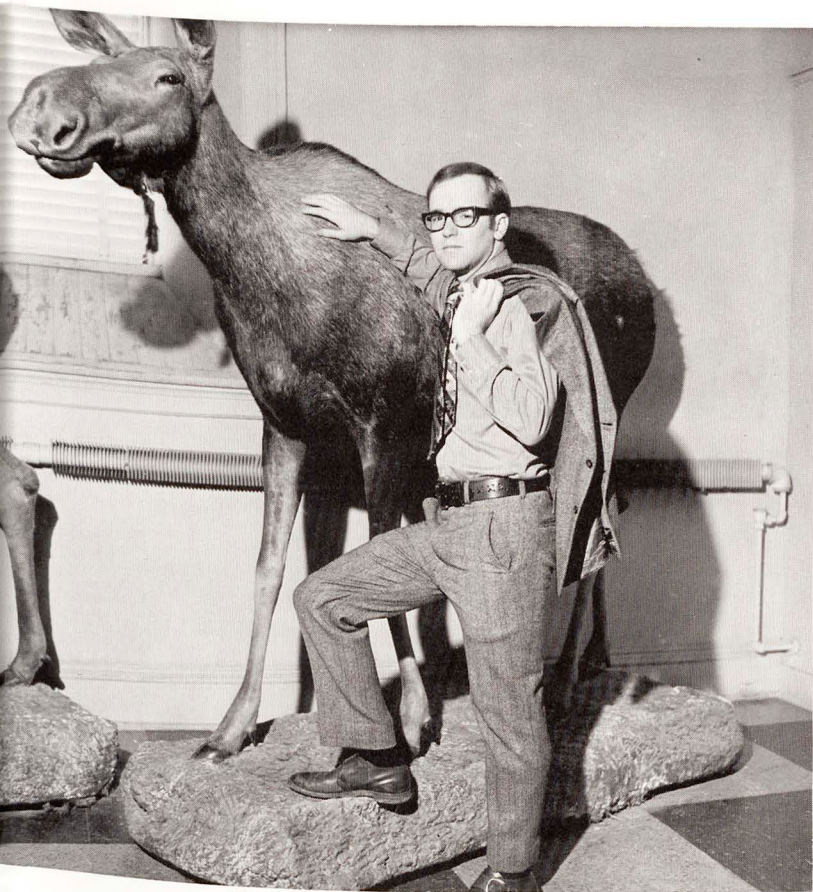

Danny Durning has amassed honors both in academics and in extracurricular activities. In addition to his outstanding record as a graduate student in public administration, Danny has also served the student body in his two-year association with Symposium. His aim has been to bring the most appealing speakers to the University of Arkansas

WHO'S WHO

Jim Eads

Jim Eads has done more to promote the aims of Blue Key than any other individual in the history of the organization on this campus. Jim's opinions in the areas of student rights and privileges have been valued highly by his peers. This past year Jim served on the Faculty-Senate Athletics Committee and investigated the "autonomous" ticket policies.

WHO'S WHO

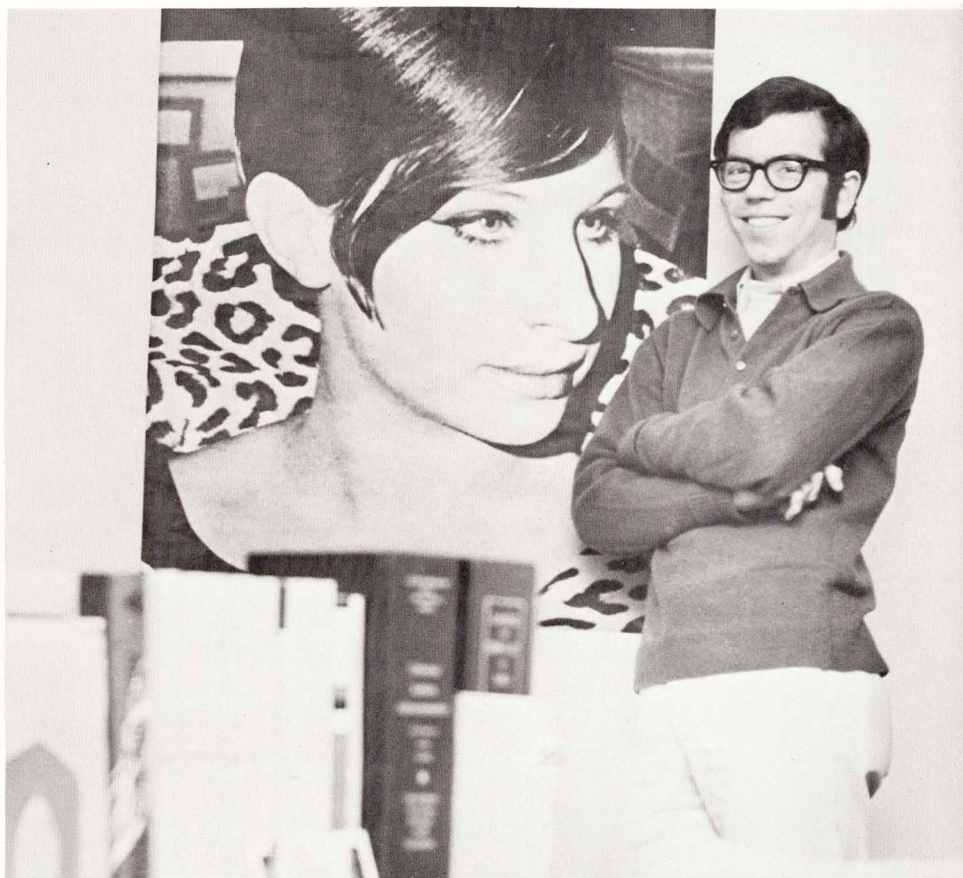

Bill Garner

Bill Garner's endeavors have encompassed almost all elements of student life. His efforts in the area of recruitment for the University of Arkansas have been singularly outstanding. Reorganizing the old system of student recruitment, Bill has updated and expanded the program and almost doubled the area that recruitment had previously covered.

WHO'S WHO

Jerry Glover

Jerry Glover has successfully engineered the production of a newspaper with the student in mind. Four years of hard work paved the way to the editorship. But when Jerry left the TRAVELER office, it wasn't to go home, for he has been active in Omicron Delta Kappa and Order of Omega as well as serving on the Union Governing Board.

WHO'S WHO

Karen Harmon

Karen Harmon has been active in Associated Women Students at a time when it was in the process of transformation from a rule-making judicial body to a positive programming one. She served as chairman of the committee to amend the AWS constitution and proposed changes in women's rules. Karen has also served on the Elections Committee.

WHO'S WHO

Kris Hohne

Kris Hohne has always been an active person. Her services to the students as Secretary of Associated Students and as a member of the Committee on Student Relations point out this fact. Kris has also contributed greatly to the Residence Hall Association on our campus. In this area she has served as president of TAU, co-chairman of Hallaballoo.

WHO'S WHO

Angela Lumpkin

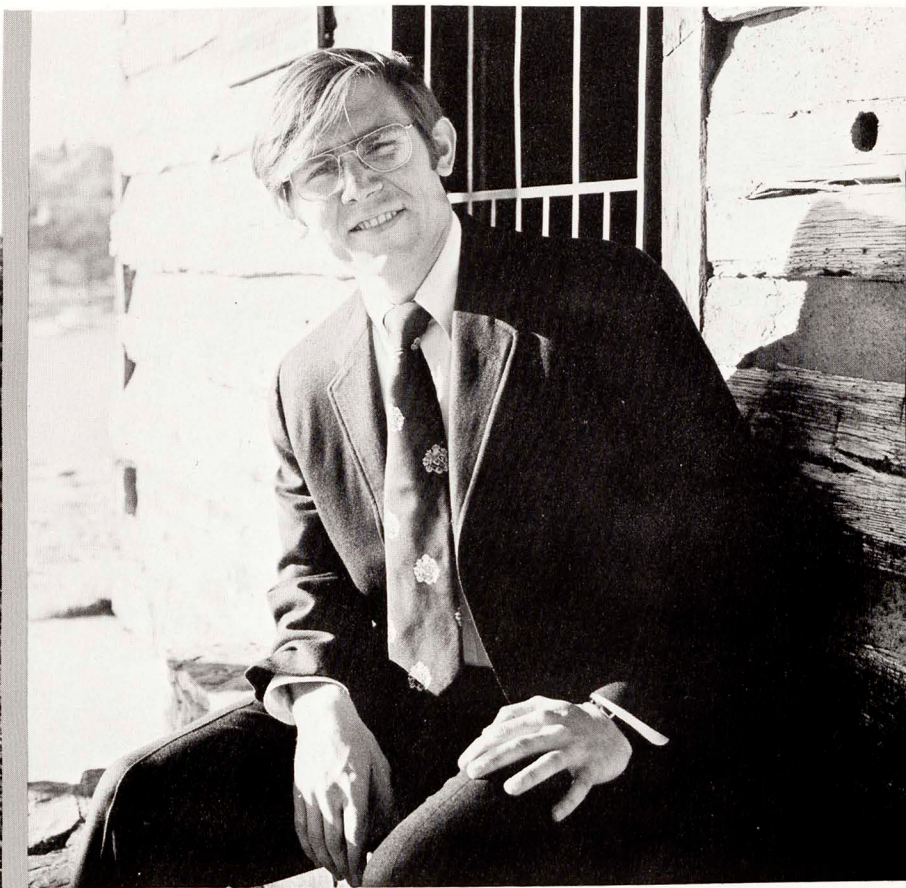

Angela Lumpkin has achieved a high academic standing throughout her college career. In addition, she has held executive positions in many campus organizations. Much of Angela's time and energy has been concentrated in the realm of women's recreation. She has promoted women's intramurals and has represented the UofA in extramural competition.

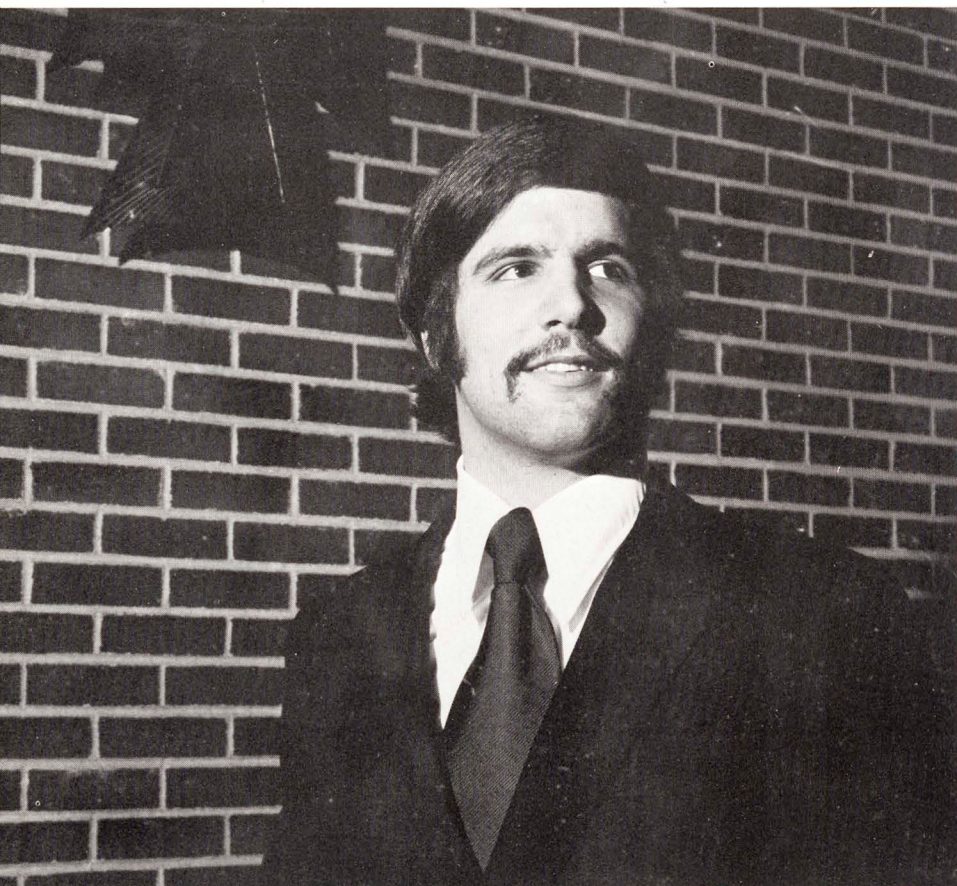

WHO'S WHO

Jim McKenzie

Jim McKenzie has been a mainstay in campus politics and student government. Having served as administrative assistant for two Associated Student Government presidents, Jim has done much to promote a student voice in all phases of University life. Jim feels that "student government can be relevant if the students want it to be and are willing to work toward those ends."

WHO'S WHO

Bryden Moon

As president of Civic Club, Bryden Moon has sought to generate more interest in its activities. His energies have been concentrated specifically on the improvement of the annual Singfony program. Bryden has also attained prominence as chairman of the committee to set up the All-Student Judiciary. Through his own efforts, this has become a reality.

WHO'S WHO

Nancy Nelson

As president of Associated Women Students, Nancy Nelson has sought to bring women's rights to the forefront. Although all of her efforts have not met with success, the extension of card keys has been a great step for women on this campus. Nancy has also distinguished herself as a justice on the Student Court, and as an active member of WRA.

WHO'S WHO

Steve Nickles

Steve Nickles has best served the campus as a senator for three consecutive years. Largely responsible for the reapportioned Senate which gives senators a more direct constituency, Steve has served every aspect of university life. Steve was also selected to represent the political science department at the National Congress for Political Process.

WHO'S WHO

Joanie Noller

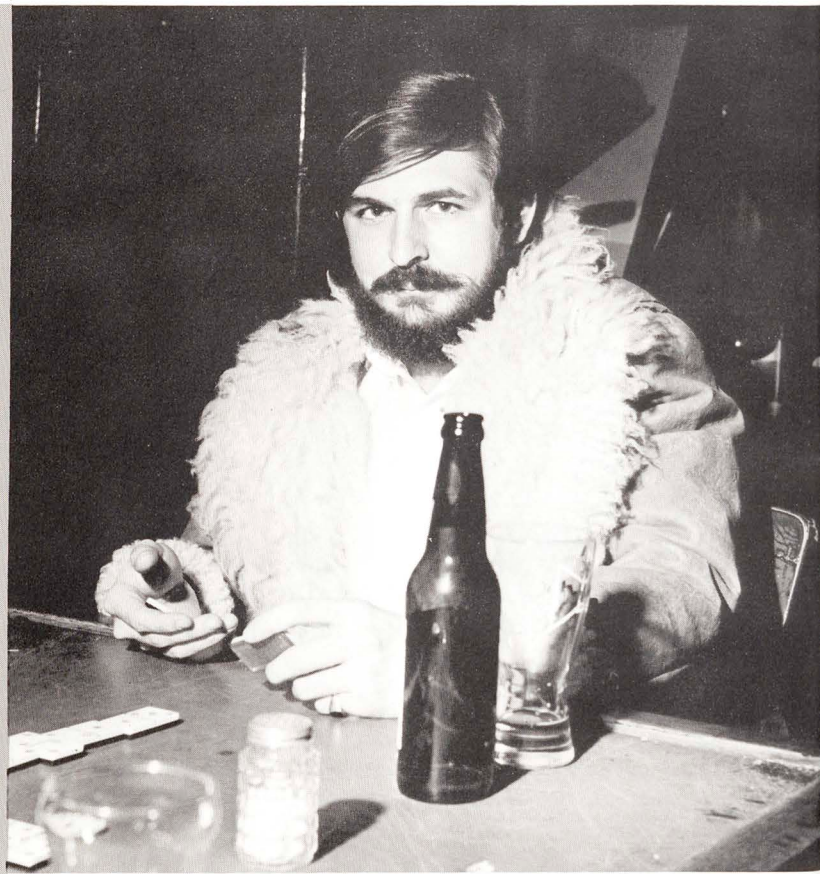

Joanie Noller has been a pioneer in the development of programs for the Arkansas Union. As a freshman, she undertook the task of increasing the relevancy of the Union in student activities. Her four years of service have resulted in the establishment of a Programs Council. Her contributions are especially timely as a new Student Union is in the making.

Ann Pride

"First Lady of Hill Hall", Ann Pride is known to anyone wishing to accomplish something on this campus. She has served the University primarily in publications and residence halls. Ann was a member of the TRAVELER staff for five years and has served as a graduate resident for two years. Ann has served as a student senator and on the symposium Board of Directors.

Mike Pritchard

Mike Pritchard is founder and coordinator of the Free University, an effort to broaden and enrich the educational experience offered at the University of Arkansas. Mike hopes not only to supplement the University's curriculum in some unorthodox fields of study, but to point out new methods and directions of study and instruction for the University to pursue in the near future.

Susie Robinson

Susie Robinson has served as a key member of numerous faculty-senate committees dealing with bettering Black-White relations, obtaining a radio station for the UofA campus and solving student petition problems. Not only has Susie held all major offices in her living group, but in addition, she has been an active member of Panhellenic and Order of Omega, a Greek honorary.

Janice Summerhill

As editor of the Residence Hall Association newspaper Hallmarks, Janice Summerhill, has made the publication more relevant to the needs of the students living in the residence halls. A further contribution to RHA has been her service as president of TAU, a resident hall honorary. Janice has served as Card Key chairman and worked to obtain card keys for all women.

WHO'S WHO

Connie Summers

Connie Summers as president of Cardinal Key has worked to obtain a National Charter for this junior women's honorary. Connie has further contributed to the campus and community through her affiliation with Angel Flight. She has also concentrated on continued improvement of Honor's Day Convocation, a program which fosters the highest respect for academic promise.

WHO'S WHO

Eddie Walker

A vital contributor in making the Black student an integral part of the University has been Eddie Walker. Through his experiences as a senator, a member of the Committee on Student relations, and with numerous Black-White dialogues, Eddie has sought to give Whites an opportunity to better understand Blacks, and make the campus "an easier place for us to get together."

WHO'S WHO

Marellen Watts

Marellen Watts deserves recognition for her meritorious service to her living group. She has been honored both locally and nationally by her sorority. Her efforts have not been restricted to her living group, however. Marellen has contributed to the entire University community through her diligent service on the Committee on Student Relations and Panhellenic Council.

Since 1923 the Razorback has administered and published the Who's Who selection. It was, in fact, the editor of the 1923 Razorback who originated Who's Who on this campus. About ten years later, a student on another campus founded the national organization.

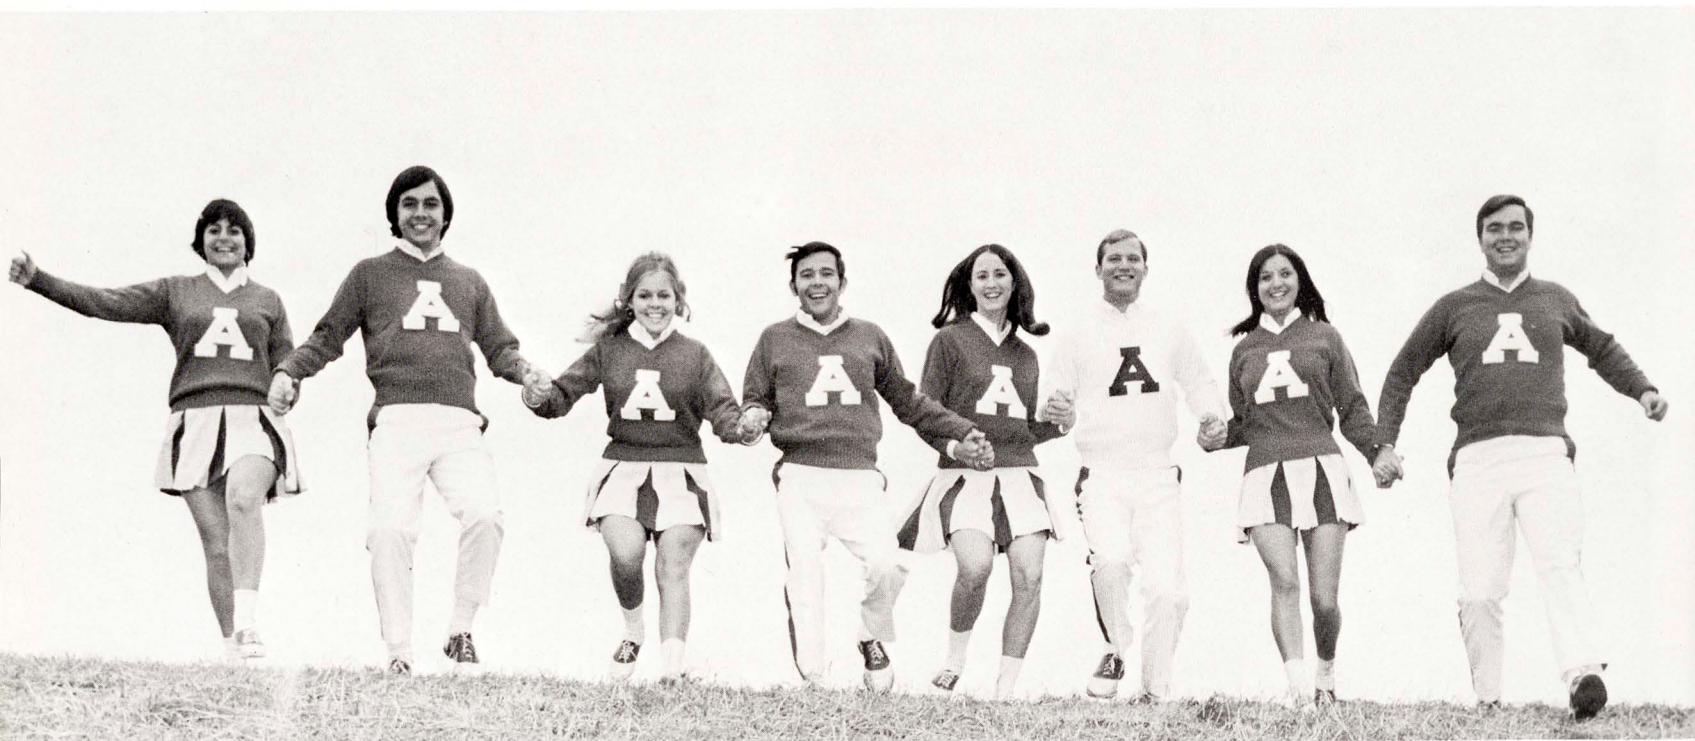

Since then, University of Arkansas students selected by the Razorback have been accepted for membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Who's Who is one of the top honors that can be awarded a student and this year it was an honor reserved for seniors and graduate students.

The students were selected on the basis of their contributions to the University community and their academic achievement. The decision of who deserves to be awarded the honor and who doesn't is a very difficult decision.

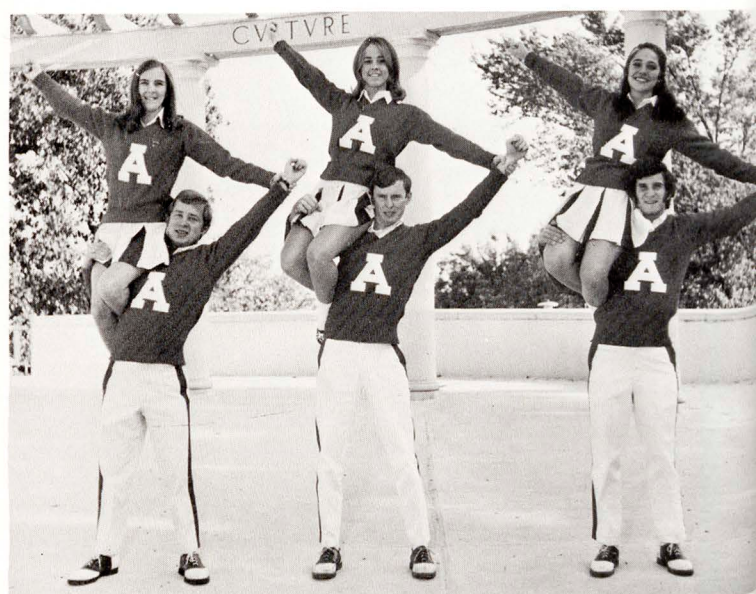

The selection committee approached the problem very conscientiously and, after long deliberation, found twenty-three students who measured up to the criteria set by the Razorback and the Board of Publications.

Razorback Rooters

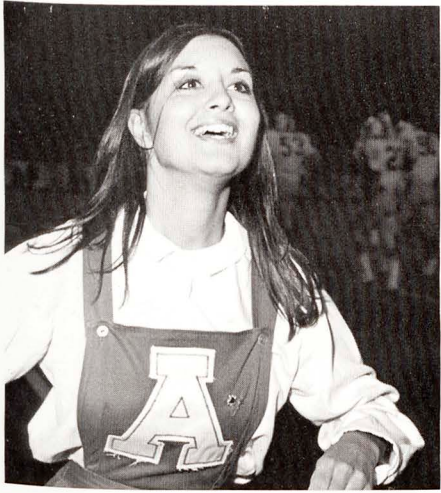

Razorback Cheerleaders, Cathy Bleiweiss, George Tennery, Phyllis Killian, Bert Dickey, Nancy Roberson, Doug Marr, Susie Ritchie, Terry Box.

Headed by Captain Doug Marr and Co-Captain Cathy Bleiweiss, this year's Razorback cheerleaders sought greater precision in their routines. At games and pep rallies, the cheerleaders could be seen performing more gymnastic stunts and partner routines than in previous years. Though cheering at all of the games leaves a big hole in their social life and utilizes a large amount of their personal time, the cheerleaders can be depended upon to help create an atmosphere that is solely "Razorback spirit."

Alternates, Becky Johnston, Jim Justiss, Ann Van Hook, Dwight Bailey, Tommie Andrews, Barry Deacon.

Terry Kingan compiled instructor evaluations.

The 1970-1971 edition of the Student Senate took on a new look. Eliminating the outdated provision of its constitution which called for election of senators by college, the Senate was reapportioned and senators were elected by their respective living groups with off campus being represented by twenty-eight members. Senators now have a more direct constituency to whom they are responsible, thus making this year's student legislative body the first to be really representative.

Symposium tickets were one of many purchases to be offered during registration in the Fall.

Senate revoked its outdated constitution, and offered a new one for approval.

On Student Government

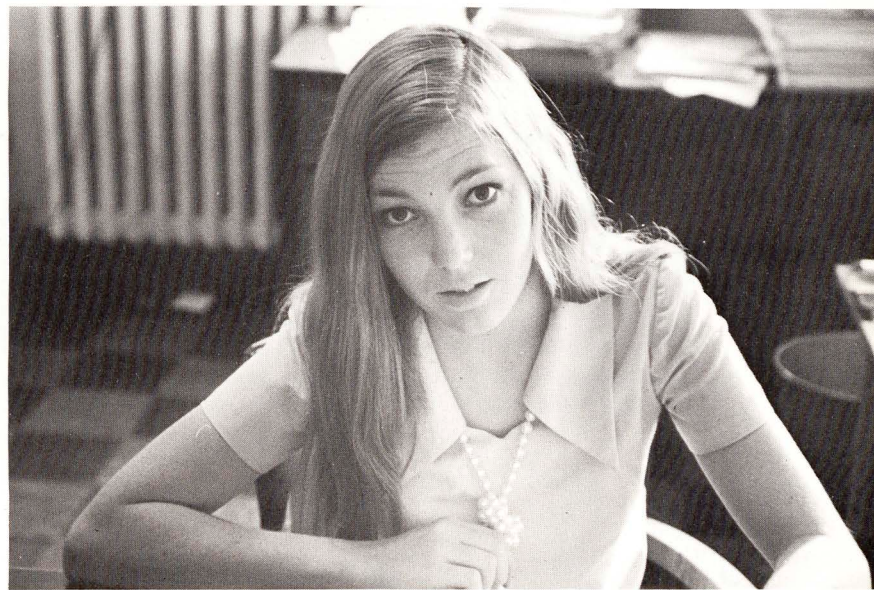

Phil Malcom, President

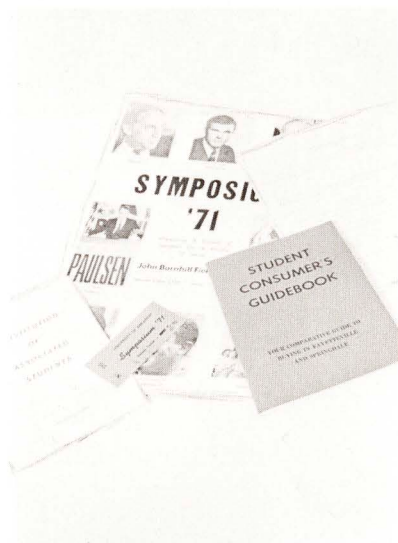

Attempting to recover from a crippling Gaebale loss, Associated Student Government President Phil Malcom and the Senate sought to accomplish the objectives set out in Malcom's campaign platform. And for the most part they did a pretty good job of it. In the midst of cries that student government is irrelevant, the Senate immediately set to work to dispel any further gripes, as students were provided with a job placement center, a President's Cabinet, a Student Consumer's Guidebook, a photocopier, and other projects, though we wonder about the far-reaching effects of any of these. In addition, a Course Evaluation Book was made available at spring registration, but met with disapproval. Early indications that administrative assistants would dictate policy to him proved unfounded as Malcom soon took control of his office. In addition to the tangible evidences (more than any recent Senate has given to the student body), the Senate began to question earnestly the role of Committee on Student Relations (CSR) in policy making. It remains to be seen if the Senate will carry the ball in restoring itself to a higher level in the decision-making process at the University. For the most part, this year's Senate was a working one, thanks to the ingenuity and enthusiasm of four dedicated ASG officers.

The Governing Board is a legislative body that constitutes and decides policy for the Union. Several committees are under the auspices of the board: the Art Committee, the Fashion Committee, the Public Relations Committee, and the Program Council. The Art Committee's purpose is to expose students to various aspects of art by presentation of several art displays on campus. The Fashion Committee keeps the campus up-to-date on new styles and designs by hosting fashion shows for coeds. Relations Committee publicizes and promotes the Student Union so that all students are aware of what it has to offer. The Program Council, composed of members from all of the committees, discusses and plans various programs that are in keeping with the needs of the university students.

AWS Secures Sophomore Keys

The Associated Women Students at the University of Arkansas is an organization changing from a rule-making body to a programming body. Programs sponsored by this group deal with problems and issues facing the citizen of today as well as topics of interest especially to women. AWS is also changing some of the University of Arkansas women's regulations. One of the aims of AWS is to see that men and women are regulated equally.

ABC Creates Mayor of Porkerville

Arkansas Booster Club is organized for the purpose of raising spirit for all University of Arkansas sports events. Apart from the traditional house decorations and torch parades, an added feature of this year's homecoming festivities was the election of a Mayor of Porkerville. ABC spearheaded the campus drive for the Wichita Memorial Fund which resulted in a contribution of over seven hundred dollars.

Karate Club Competes for Championships

This is the first year of existence for the U of A Karate Club. Although the club successfully competed in several meets, its ultimate ambition is to establish an inter-collegiate competition with the karate clubs and teams of other universities at the regional and national levels. The Karate Club encourages a student of the martial arts to realize the integration of body and spirit through stringent physical discipline and inward meditation.

The Little Sisters of Minerva is an honorary service organization composed of twenty-four girls chosen by the chapter members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Their primary objective is to serve as house hostesses and sponsor activities which promote brotherhood among its members as well as the fraternity members. These activities include assistance in giving a Christmas party for some underprivileged children.

Blue Key "Serving, I Live"

Left to right: T. Walker, Vice-President; J. Eads, President; B. Busby, Treasurer; R. Sisk, Secretary; B. Garner, Vice-President.

Blue Key is a national men's honor fraternity which recognizes leadership, scholarship, and outstanding contributions to the University. The Marble Arch chapter at the University of Arkansas, in addition to being an honorary, seeks to serve the University through its recruitment program for outstanding high school scholars. Blue Key also hosts forums for student leaders. Since its inception in 1928, Blue Key membership and service has become campus tradition.

National Honorary for Mechanical Engineers

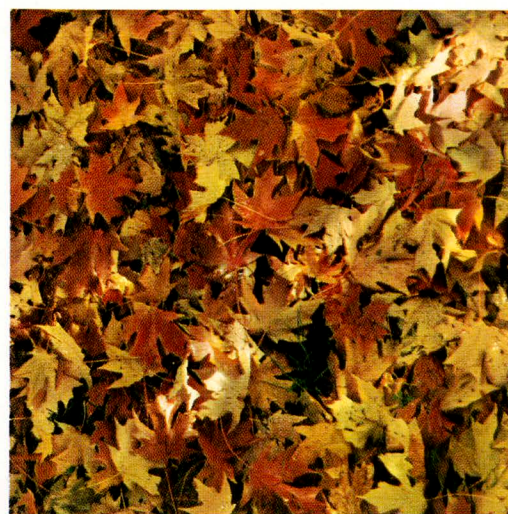

Pi Tau Sigma, founded at the University of Illinois in 1915, was organized "to foster the ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in co-ordinate departmental activities, and to promote the welfare of its members." The Arkansas chapter, installed in 1959, has worked to improve the "image" of the mechanical engineering student on the campus.

National Collegiate Players

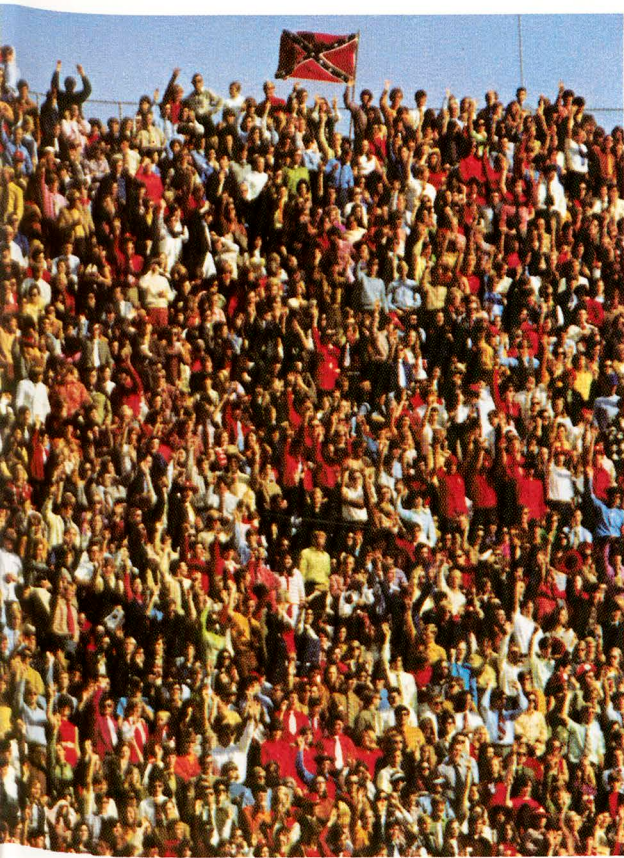

National Collegiate Players has as its purpose the recognition of individuals who have contributed significantly to theatre activities while in college and who have done well scholastically. The Arkansas chapter awards two to three scholarships in drama annually. National Collegiate Players is the only national dramatics organization recognized by the National Honors Council.

The President

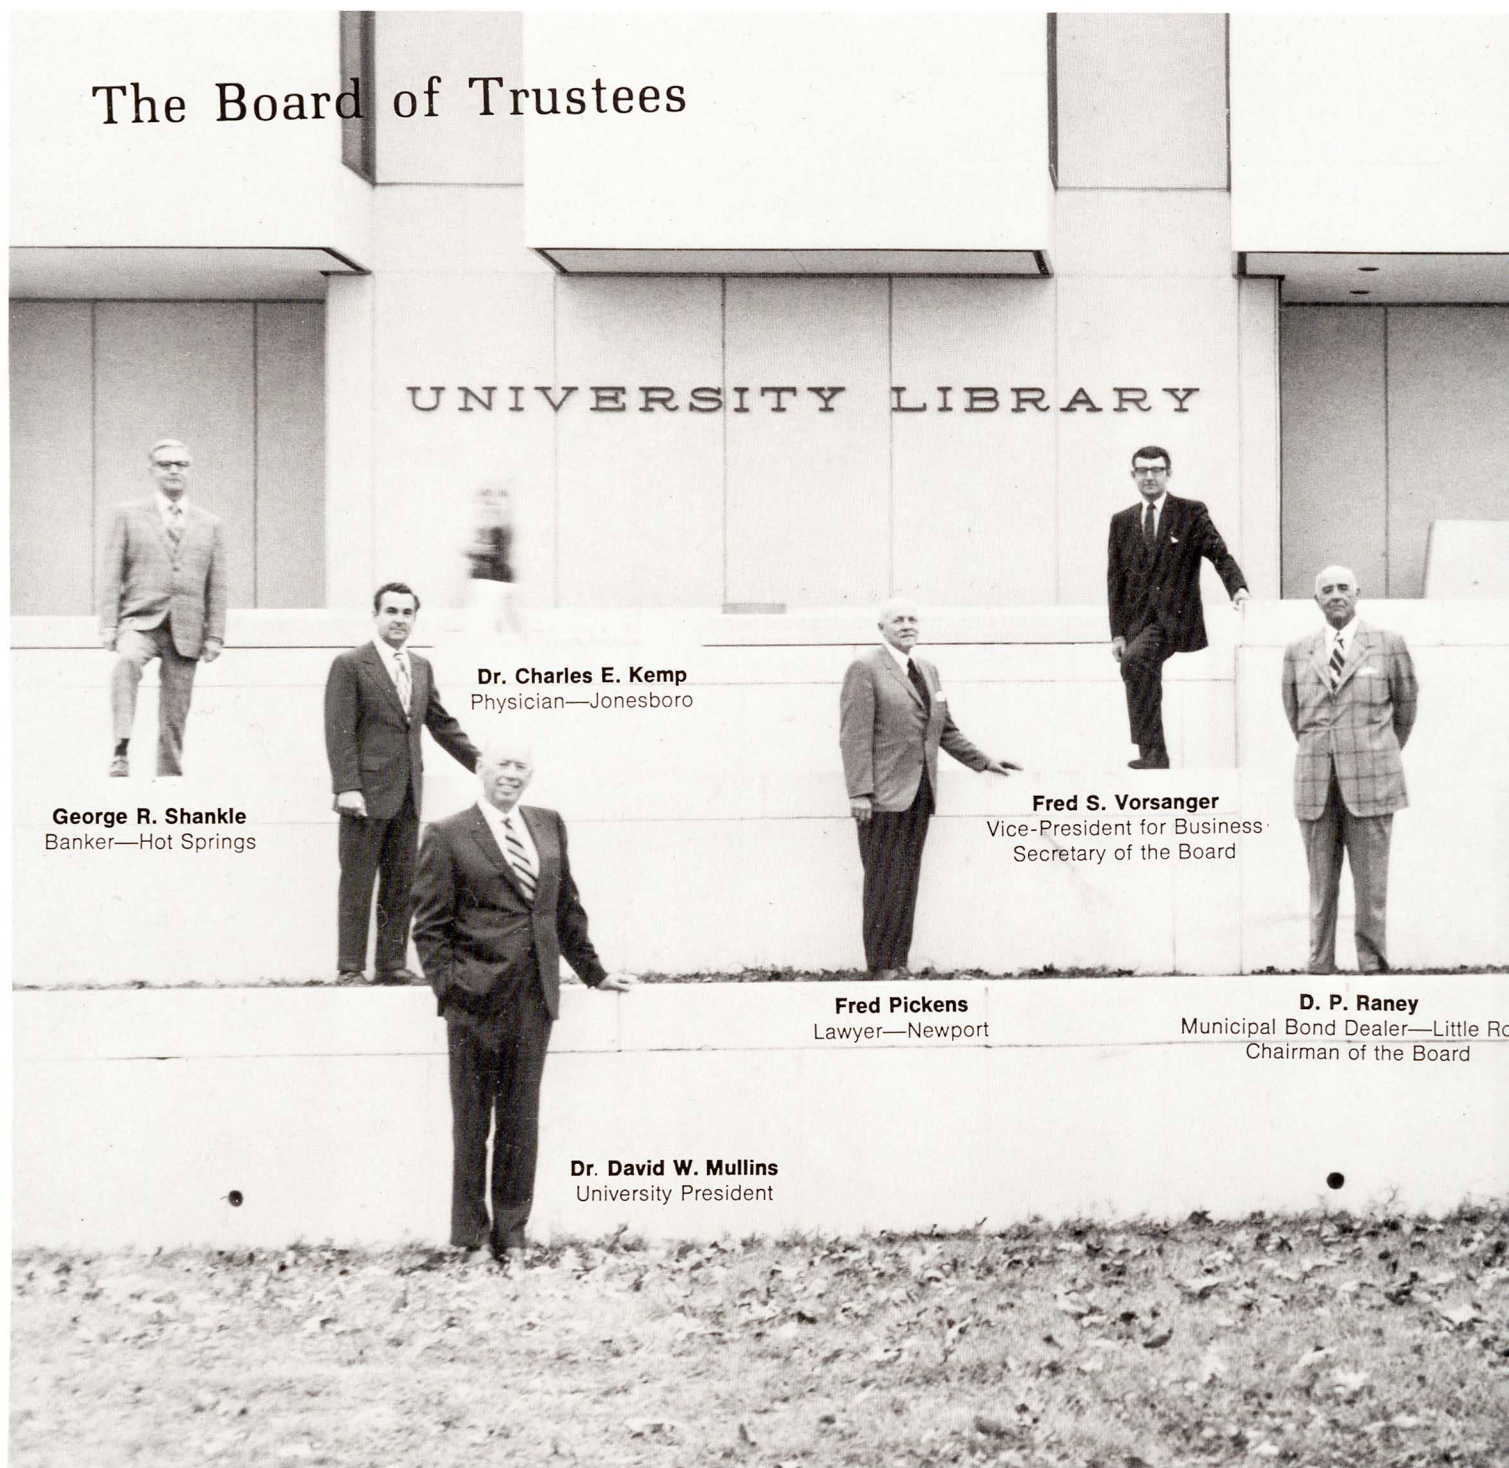

What lies ahead for the University of Arkansas in the next ten years? This was the question posed to Dr. David Mullins, President of the U of A for the past ten years. Dr. Mullins finds today's students more broadly prepared, more sensitive to social problems, and more concerned about the inner workings of the University. To meet the demands of today's student, Mullins sees a curriculum "tailor-made" to each individual's needs, with greater emphasis on the humanities and social sciences. He foresees a continuing growth in enrollments and buildings, accompanied by the renovation of old buildings, including Old Main. In some areas, new teaching techniques employing electronic media will replace outmoded methods of instruction. All in all, Dr. Mullins feels that tomorrow's student will find less pressure, but will be more committed to his studies. Recently, Dr. Mullins was named president-elect of the prestigious National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

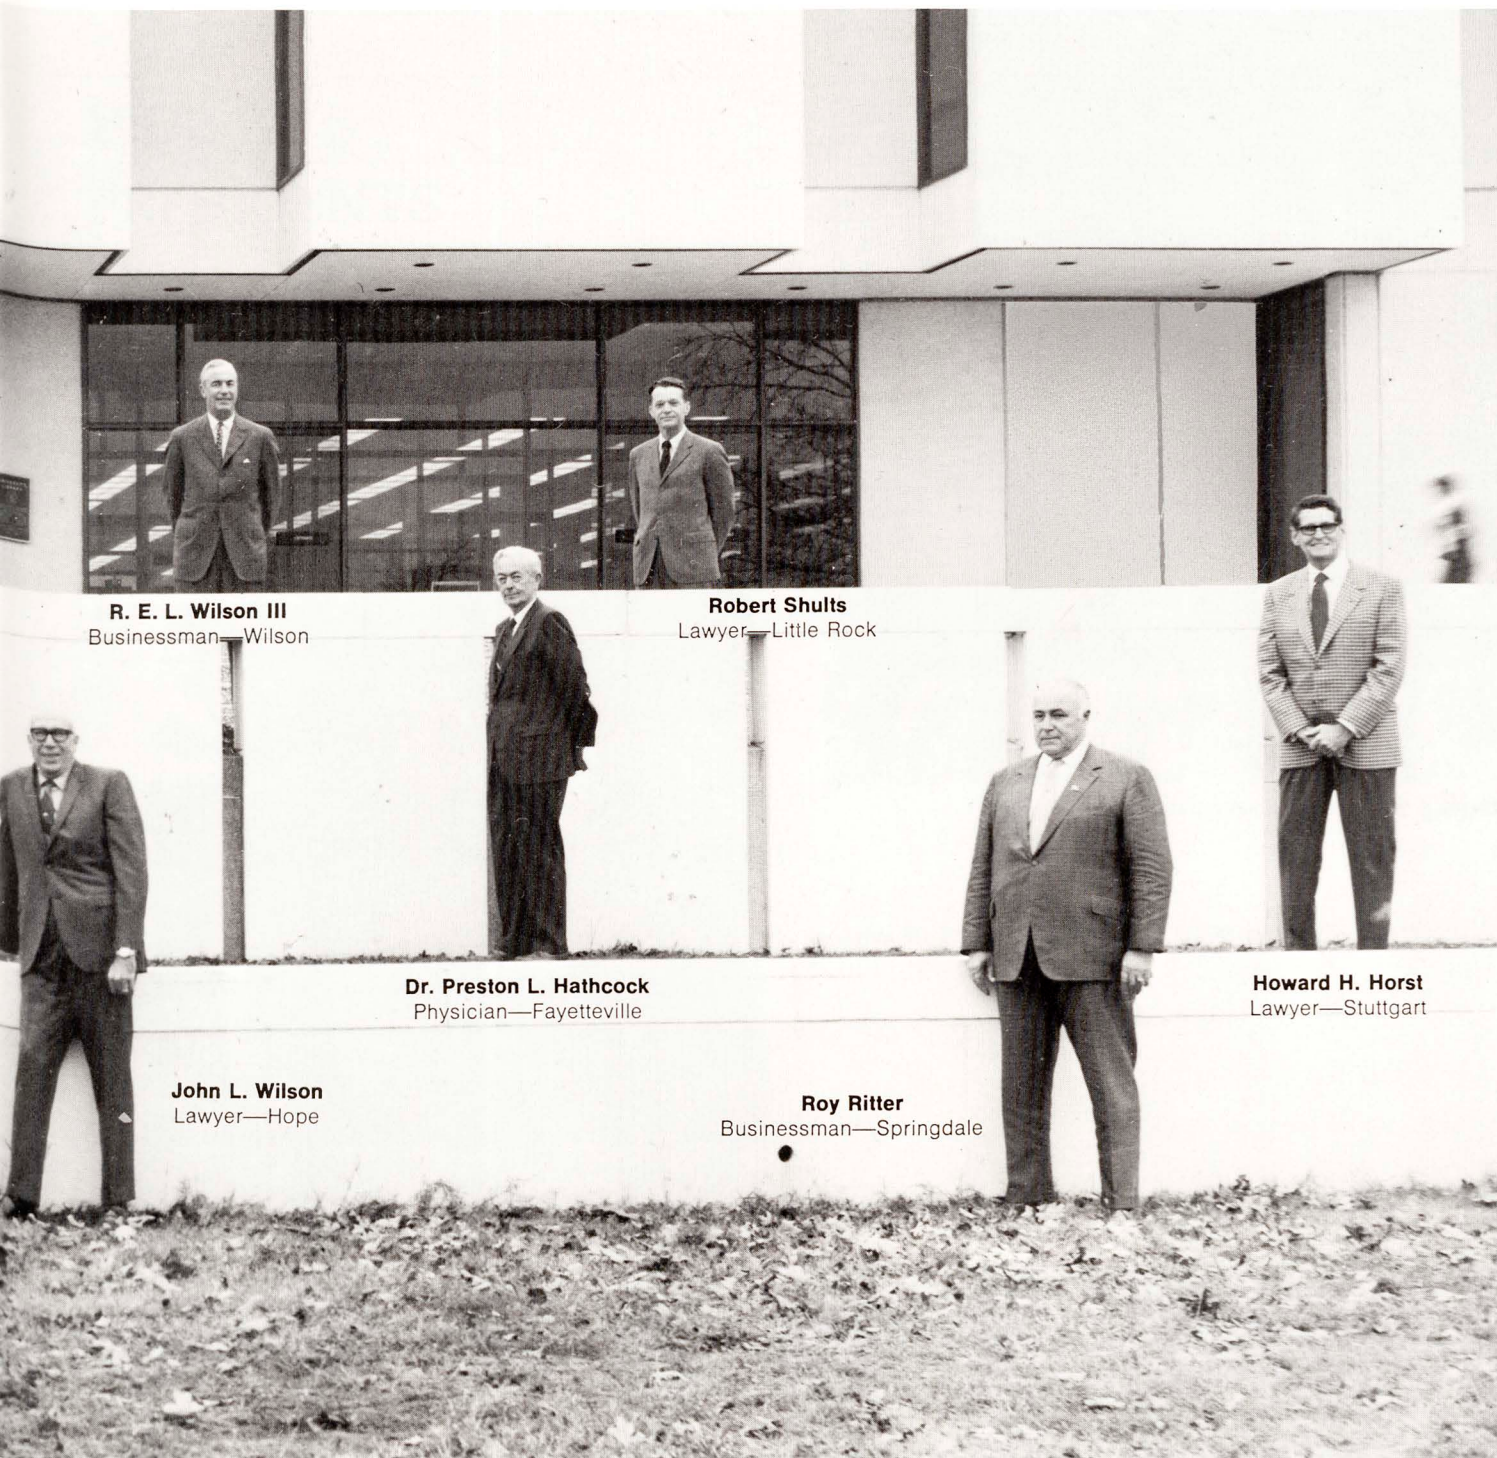

Dr. Mullins works closely with the state to secure funds and help for the University. Newly-elected Governor Bumpers, who stressed in his campaign that education was top priority, spoke at January Commencement.

The Board of Trustees

Members of the Board serve a ten-year term with one new member appointed by the Governor each year. Leon Catlett retired last year and was replaced by Robert Shults. Thomas Eisele resigned upon being appointed as a federal judge and was replaced by Dr. Charles E. Kemp.

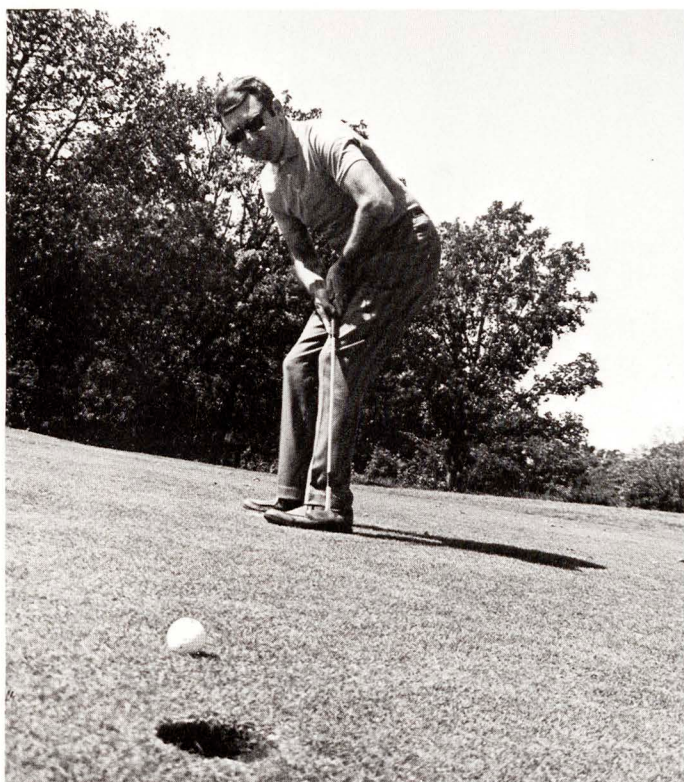

The Board approved the merger of the University with Arkansas A & M at Monticello with the legal control of A & M passing to the Board. A day law school at Little Rock was approved provided adequate financing could be secured.

Directly affecting the students, the Board extended card keys to sophomore women this fall. Last year the Board had granted the privilege to junior women. The Board also approved an increase in residence hall rates, but didn't raise tuition.

College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Substantial Increase in Graduates

Experiencing a fifty percent increase in enrollment, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics has had a 110 percent increase in number of students graduated in the same period. Careful advising and better educated entering freshmen all have contributed to increasing the percentage of entering freshmen who graduate.

Coeds in home economics learn skills of dressmaking and design, as well as basics of sewing, cooking, and home management.

College of Arts and Sciences

Emphasis On the Individual

With a new attitude based on student choice and emphasis on the individual, the College hopes to present more opportunity for advanced placement. The growing curriculum also attempts to provide more courses on pass-fail basis, and to simplify details in enrollment.

The diversity of these twenty departments is exemplified by contrasting the free creativity of art with strict rules of mathematics.

College of Business Administration

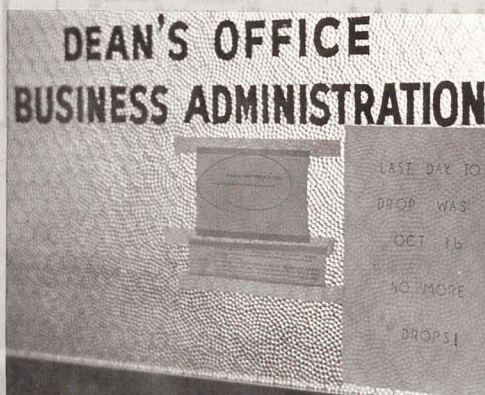

Greater Variety in Curriculum

A completed revision of the entire curriculum resulted in more variety of courses and requirements in the College of Business Administration. The College hopes to enhance the quality of the school by meeting individual student needs, state and business demands, and graduate school requirements both here and across the nation.

Paperwork never ceases to pile up for the weary accounting major.

College of Education

Identification With Classroom Atmosphere

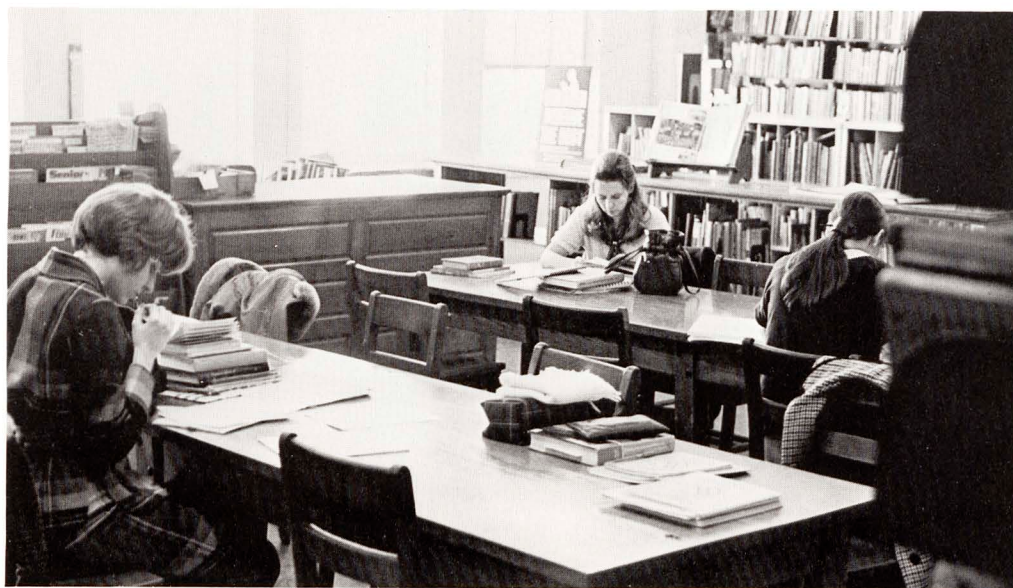

Fred J. Vescolani, Dean of the College of Education

Under the leadership of a new dean, the College of Education is progressing toward providing undergraduates with experience working with school age youths resulting in identification into a classroom atmosphere before their junior year. It is also working with the use of educational technology including educational television and video taping of student teaching.

The kindergarten maintained by the College provides training for students by allowing them to work with pre-school children.

Aspiring young teachers get a very thorough education from the books they read in the kiddie-lit library in the education building.

College of Engineering

New Course in Environmental Changes

To prepare graduates of highest professional competence with character to deal creatively with the problems of our times is the major mission of the College of Engineering. It hopes the students will play prominent roles in the betterment of human welfare in the rapidly changing world. The College has established a new interdisciplinary course in environmental changes as one attempt to complete its goal.

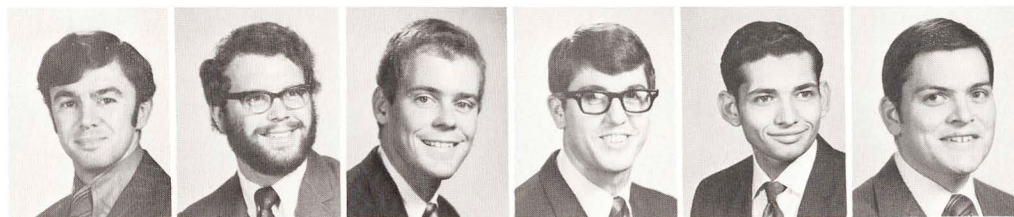

Engineering students learn to solve complex problems in the classroom and then apply these solutions to problems in the lab.

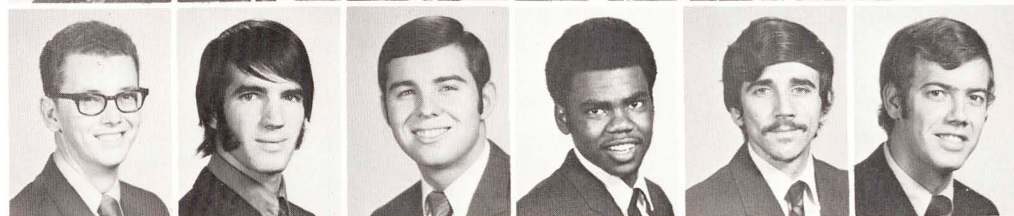

George F. Branigan
Dean of the College of Engineering

Engineering majors soon find that the best atmosphere for out-of-class study is in the classroom itself.

Division of Continuing Education

The rapidly growing Division of Continuing Education fulfills the public service function of the University on a state-wide basis. It takes academic opportunity outside the campus by such programs as independent study, off campus centers in cities throughout Arkansas, and adult education courses.

The Division of Continuing Ed. maintains a rehabilitation center.

Hugh Mills, Dean

The Division must maintain an extensive set of rental textbooks.

Corrected lessons and finals are mailed daily to towns in every state.

When taking a correspondence final—which is comprehensive over the complete course—solitude and quiet is an absolute necessity.

Graduate School

Development Of Objective Thinking

Graduate work is planned to meet a variety of needs but the main objective is the advancement and dissemination of knowledge. The University of Arkansas Graduate School offers twenty-one degrees and stresses development of independent and objective thinking.

School of Law

Preparation for Law Practice

The School of Law follows standards of the American Bar Association to provide a thorough preparation for the practice of law, and is designed to give the student a sense of ethical values and enable him to understand law in relation to other agencies of social control.

Freshmen law students discover that they are just beginning a long romance with the old volumes in the modern law library.

Army and Air Force ROTC

Safeguarding democracy . . . building leadership . . . carrying on a tradition rooted deeply on our campus . . . giving young men a chance to serve their country as well as it has served them.

COL Eugene J. Holmes, Professor of Military Science

Continuing A Rich Tradition

This University has a rich tradition of service and leadership given to it by men with distinguished military backgrounds. Today's cadets, voluntarily participating in the ROTC program, feel as strongly as those that have gone before them that "so long as our nation can call with confidence on her sons and daughters for the defense of her people, just so long will she remain one nation under God, indivisible, with justice and liberty for all." These cadets exemplify the finest in American youth. The Nation, the State, and the University can well be proud of them and be assured of their capabilities and service in the many years to come.

Staff Officers, MAJ James Dutcher, MAJ Frank Weston, MAJ Joseph Heuman, CPT Lansing Hewitt, MAJ Richard Rogers, LTC Ralph Treat.

NCO, SFC Howard, MSG Contrella, SGM Kelly, SFC Jeffries, SSG Craft.

Under the guidance of cadre instructors, advanced ROTC cadets conduct their own classes through reports and panel discussions.

MS Contrella serves as coach-advisor to the Rifle Team.

Captain Hewitt insures that cadets are maintaining the standards set for them by cadre through inspections.

William Russell Meeks III,
Cadet Brigade Commander

Becoming Experienced Leaders

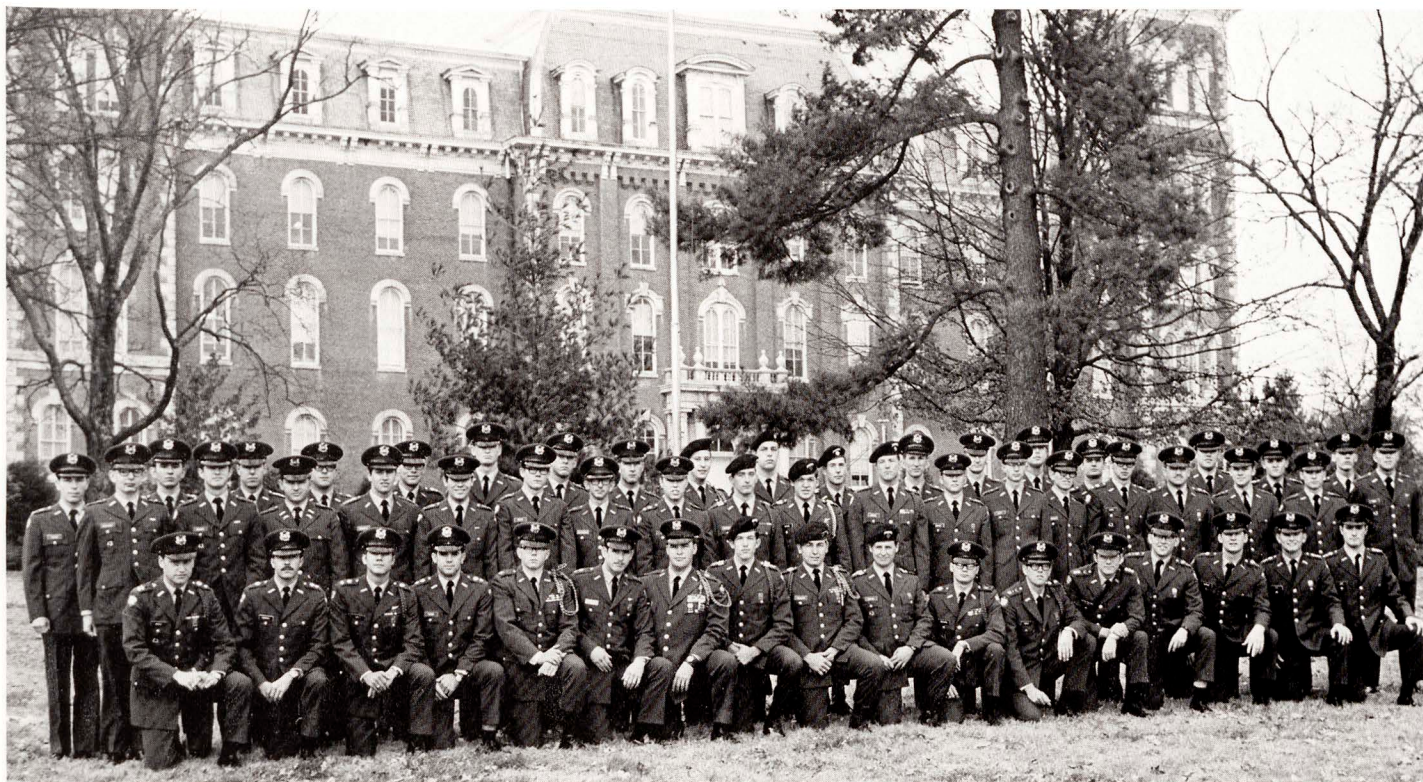

Cadets in the advanced program learn the principles of leadership, tactics, and management in the classroom and at summer camp. More important, however, the cadets applied these principles in actual leadership situations so that they are commissioned as experienced leaders.

Summer camp is one of the most important phases of ROTC. These cadets have just finished one of many rigorous field training exercises.

Future cadet officers get tactical instruction by Regular Army Officers during their summer training at Camp Eagle.

Rappelling offers Rangers a true challenge, since self-confidence and good training are needed to make it down the 150-foot cliffs.

Rangers Develop Leadership

The Ranger Platoon was formed in 1967 with the dual mission of training selected cadets in counterinsurgency operations and developing the leadership qualities inherent in the infantry officer. Frequent weekend field problems are held to provide operational experience in these fields.

Weekly classes gave members instructional experience and candidates good tactical training.

The Army ROTC Flight Program is designed to give interested senior cadets all the training necessary to earn a private pilot's license in four months. This includes 35 hours of ground school and 36 hours of flight time. This training is given by instructors at Drake Field.

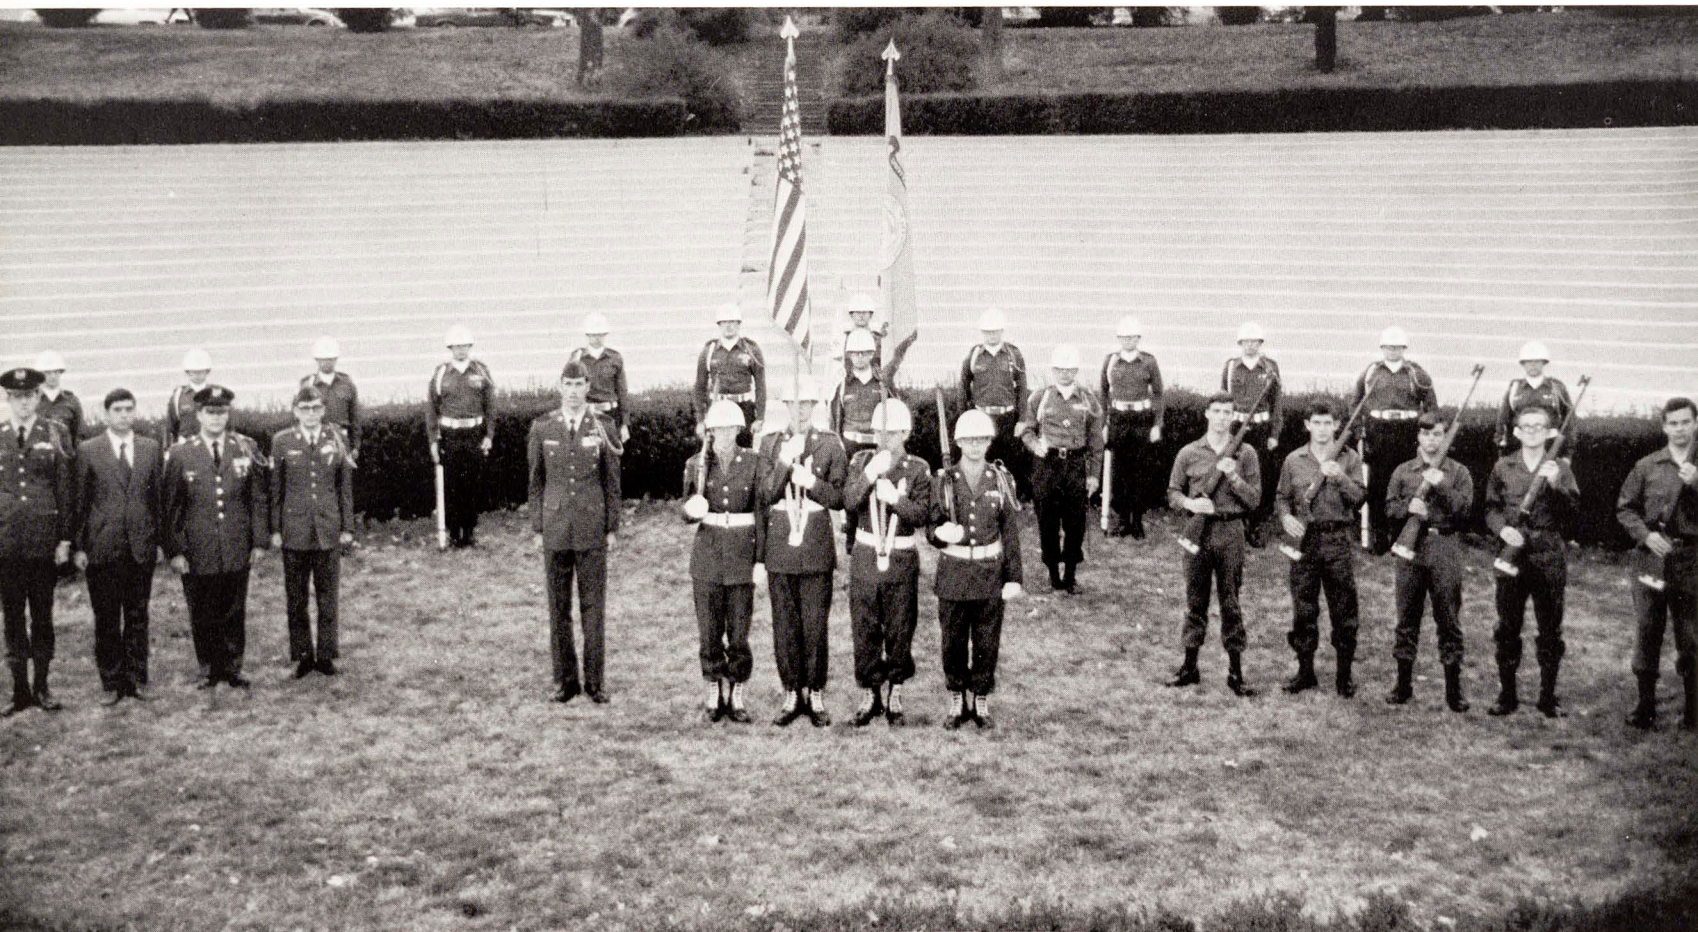

The ROTC Rifle Team offers an opportunity to take part in competitive meets in several states.

While all cadets receive tactical training in summer camp, many get additional experience in the Rangers.

Army ROTC Offers Varied Training

ROTC is concerned with providing specialized training to fit each individual's desires and aptitudes. Whether participating in a long-range patrol with the Rangers or marching in a parade with the Pershing Rifles, the student is learning many new and valuable skills.

"Set the example" is the motto of Company D-7. Army and Air Force cadets receive valuable training in tactics, marksmanship, and exhibition drill. This year cadets were taught rappelling, jump training, and scuba diving. The drill team and color guard performed in parades and drill meets, and in February the company spent four days at the Mardi Gras.

Scabbard and Blade

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade is an honorary military fraternity for advanced ROTC cadets. Pledges are selected from both the Army and Air Force programs based on scholarship, campus leadership, and interest in the military program. The Society aims to instruct the future officers of the Armed Forces in traditions and customs. In addition, civic and community projects are performed by the members and pledges.

Cadettes Work With Brigade

The Cadette Corps consists of twenty-five coeds selected by interview and chosen on the basis of their beauty, personality, moral character, and scholarship. An outgrowth of Army Sponsors, the Cadette Corps participates in a wide variety of activities including civic, patriotic, educational, and charitable functions. The unit also takes part in ROTC drill, classes, and social events. Other activities include working with the Red Cross during blood drives, hostessing Symposium, sponsoring turkey shoots, and representing the Cadet Brigade.

AFROTC Changes Curriculum

The Air Force ROTC program is the oldest continuous source of officers for the United States Air Force. AFROTC is responsible for commissioning officers through academic programs in colleges and universities across the nation. To accomplish this task, AFROTC has made a number of far-reaching changes in curriculum, to prepare young men for the challenge ahead. The result has been an officer corps that is better educated, more versatile, and higher in their degree of professionalism than ever before.

Staff Officers, CAPT John Entwistle, MAJ Robert Johnston, COL William Davis, CAPT Jerry Baber, CAPT Thomas Goode, CAPT Gerald Mason.

Colonel William C. Davis, Professor of Aerospace Studies.

Cadets attend a four-week camp at Air Force bases across the United States to receive instruction unavailable at the University.

The Officer Training Program gives leadership training to selected soph cadets who intend to enter the AFROTC advanced program.

In the basic program Air Force officers instruct the cadets on world military systems and try to instill in them initiative and leadership.

Besides commanding Air Force ROTC drill, senior staff officers plan cadet activities for the entire school year.

Seniors Learn Personnel Management

The objective of Air Force ROTC is to generate officers who demonstrate dedication to their assignments, who willingly accept responsibility, who think critically and creatively, and who have the ability to communicate with clarity and precision. Bruce James and Steve Benoit were two of the reasons that the defense contained the Oklahoma State Cowboys at Little Rock.

Injuries like this one virtually ended Bill Burnett's college football career early.

After two tough games at Little Rock, the Pork-ers returned to the Fayetteville campus to continue their dominance over Tulsa. Even the rainy weather could not dampen the second half offensive explosion when the Hogs accounted for five touchdowns.

Bill Montgomery provided the passing game while Bill Burnett again led the ground attack.

Ronnie Jones typified the hard-hitting Razorback defensive squad.

Arkansas 49 TCU 14

It was a big day for the Razorbacks as they won their twelfth in a row over the TCU Horned Frogs. However, it was a sad day for the game of football as a plane carrying the Wichita State football team crashed in the Colorado mountains.

Collisions by the Arkansas and TCU lines could be heard all night.

TCU Beaten for Twelfth Consecutive Time

Saint Stifles Owls in Second Half Drive

For the first two periods it looked as if the rambling Rice Owls would pull the upset of the season as they took a startling 14-3 lead at the half. However, Bill Montgomery led the Hogs to five straight scores in the second half as Mike Saint crashed over the goal line twice.

Ronnie Jones helped turn the tide of the game with this interception against Rice. It took the Hogs two quarters to halt the Owls.

Shootout II Turns into Texas Scoring Parade

Texas proved to be the better team as the two South-west Conference powers clashed in Austin for Shootout II. The Longhorns' power was virtually unstoppable for the Porker defense. For sixteen Razorback seniors, their college football careers ended in frustration.

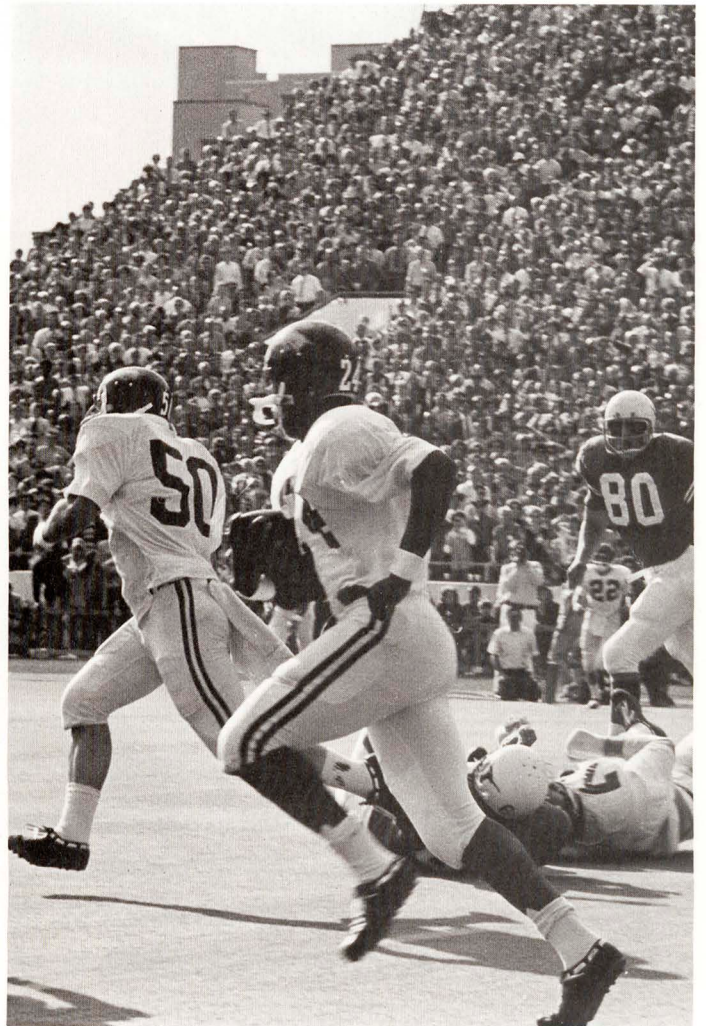

Sophomore Jon Richardson scored the Hogs' only touchdown against the Longhorns. He will have two years to gain his revenge.

Texas halfback Jim Bertelson was one of the Longhorn runners who went rampant over the Hog defense during the showdown.

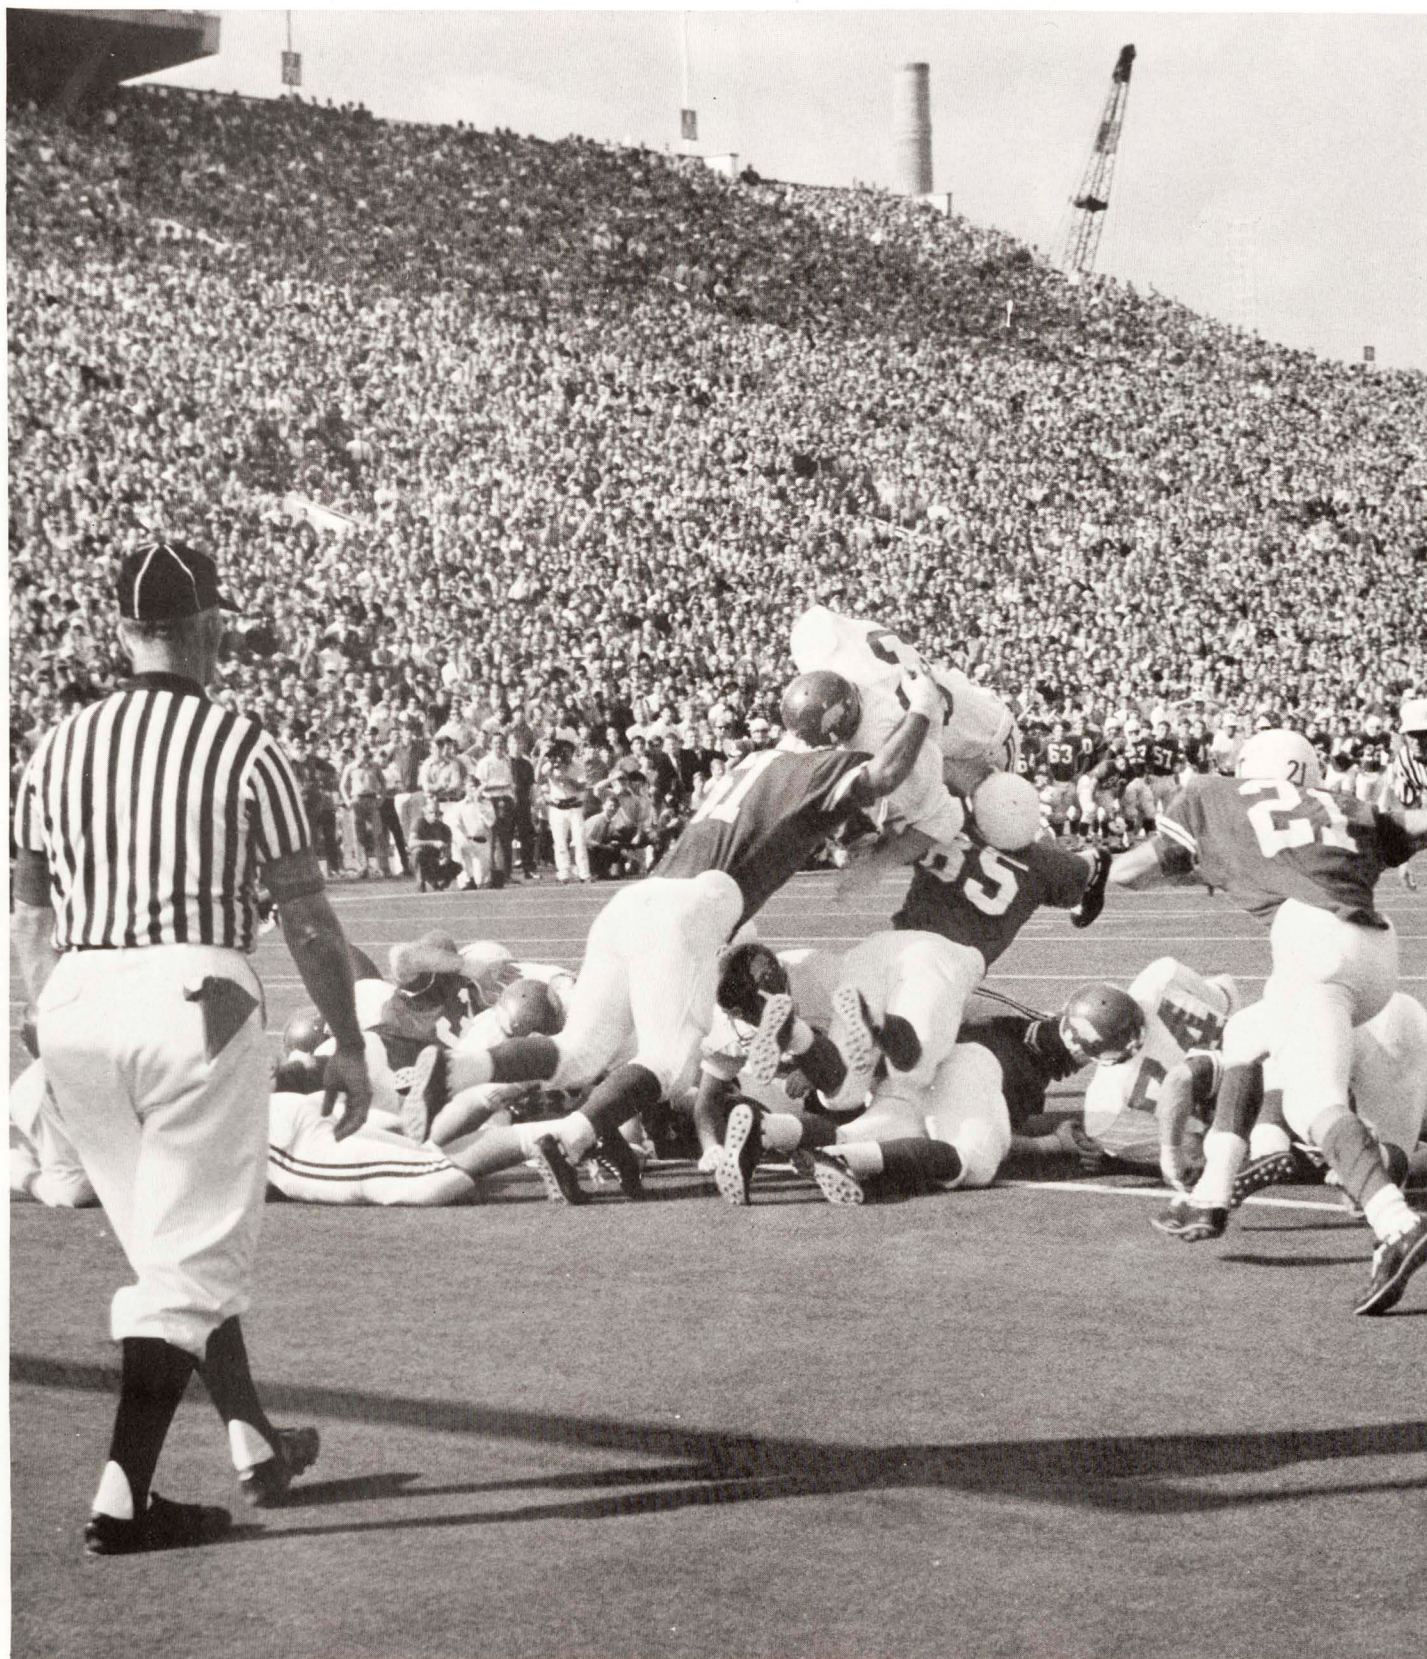

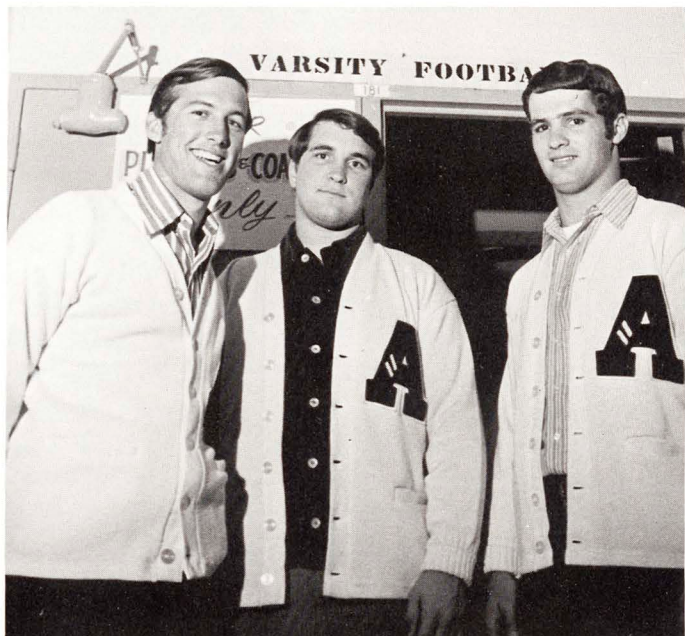

Quarterback Bill Montgomery tried all tactics he had gathered in three years against Texas.

After being sidelined for five weeks, Bill Burnett failed in this goal line attempt against Texas, which later proved to be the turning point in Frank Broyles' worst defeat.

A top-notch transfer, Joel Heider played a number of roles for the Hogs.

Solid defense was one of the strong points displayed by guard Fred Mooney, a junior.

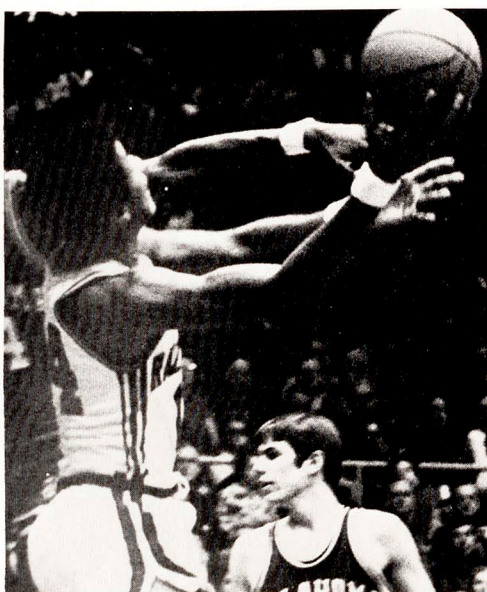

Vernon Murphy came off a year of suspension to become the Razorbacks leading scorer in 1970-71. Murphy will be a leader during future years with the improving Razorback hoopsters.

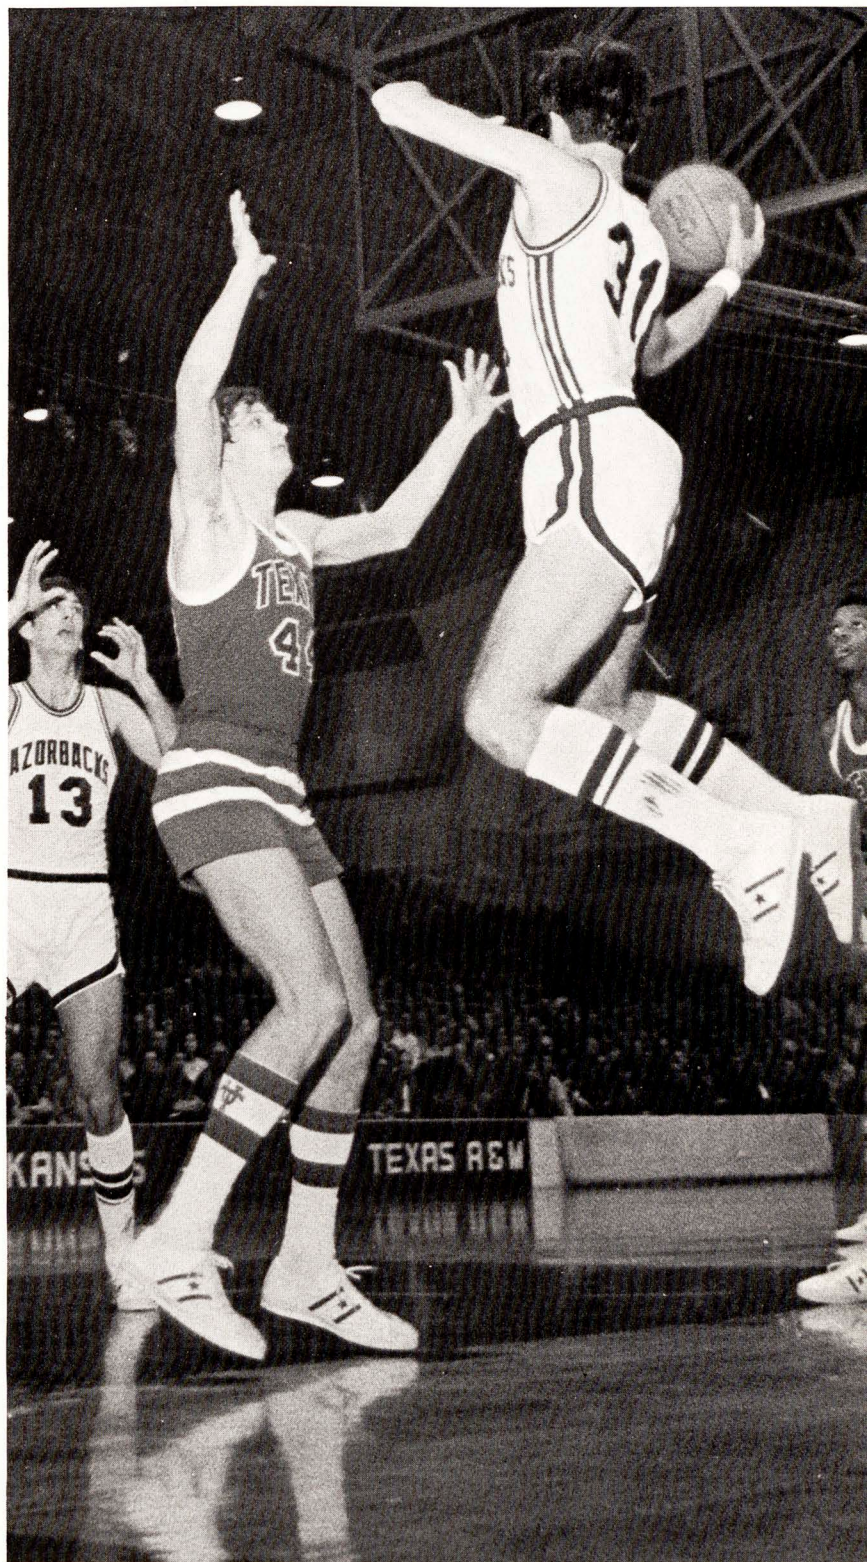

As was the case against the Oklahoma Sooners, Joel Tabor was often forced to take the post position against taller opponents.

Fans Become Involved in Basketball Action

Even though the season record didn't set any precedent, the team made a lot of friends with their exciting type of basketball. Scoring records fell by the wayside as paper cups fell from the stands, and Razorback rooters discovered there was another sport on campus besides football.

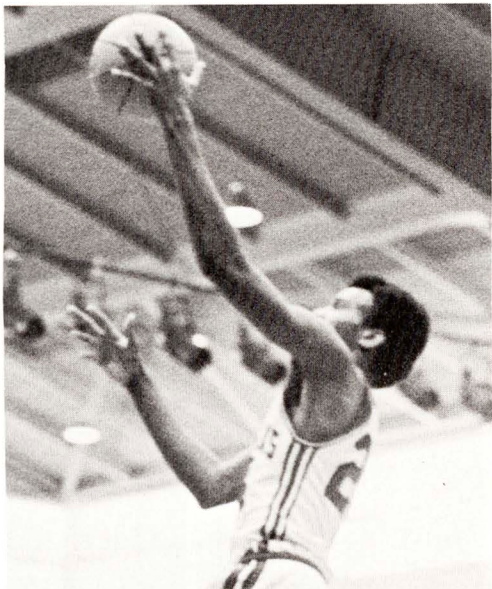

Vernon Murphy faced a great number of rebounding duels during the course of the season.

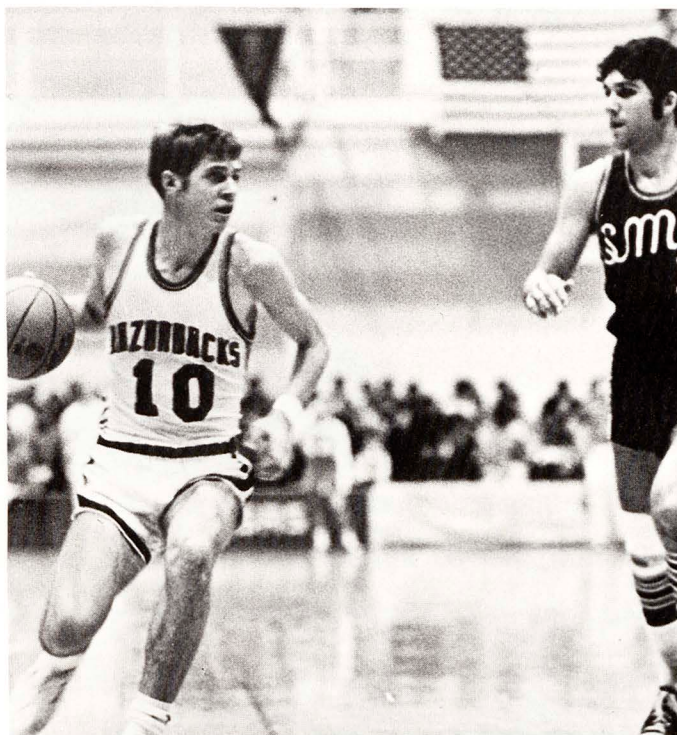

Besides being one of the finest shooters in the Conference, Donnie Watts proved to be an extremely accurate passer as well.

Tension invaded Barnhill Fieldhouse as the Razorbacks squared off against the Longhorns in a renewal of the Southwest's oldest rivalry.

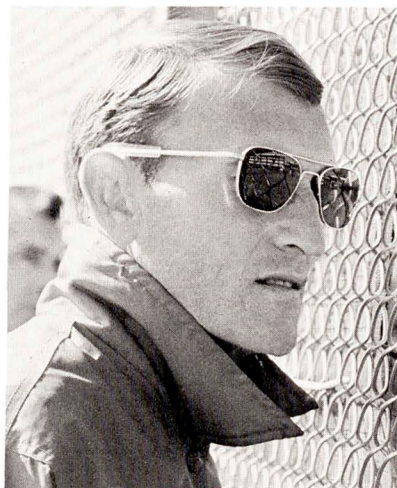

Sophomore John Searles became the leading rebounder for the Porkers late in the year.

Players of Mike Brown's caliber underscored the Razorback youth movement. The Porkers sported one senior on the entire team.

Even though the season's record was unenviable, the Hogs were greeted with loud cheers when they took the court for the opening tip.

Coach Kossover found an improved unit of netters in his second year.

Tennis Team Enjoys Early Success

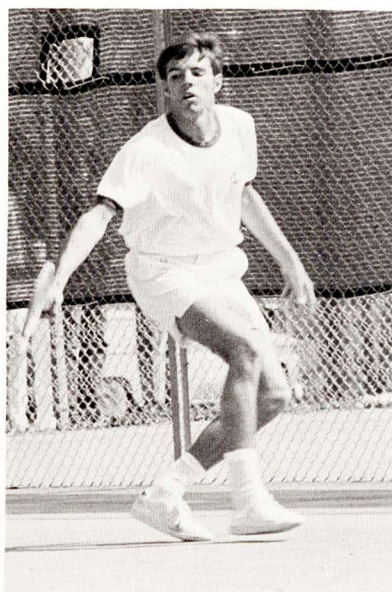

The tennis team of coach David Kossover carried the winning tradition of 1970 into the 1971 season as they competed throughout the Southwest. Led by Dennis Rizza, David Beauchamp, Tom Boarders, David Stout, and Phil Landauer, the Porkers excelled in both singles and doubles action through the course of the tennis season.

Fast moving doubles matches proved to be exciting to spectators.

You can't beat that forehand power.

Stout's backhand proved to be a constant irritation to conference rivals.

Chuck Brownfield paced the Razorback golfers to early victories.

Golf Squad Chases SWC Title

Again in pursuit of the elusive Southwest Conference crown, the Arkansas Razorback golf team enjoyed another successful year on the links. Senior Chuck Brownfield distinguished himself as one of the outstanding individual performers in the league, while the squad earned the title of spoilers.

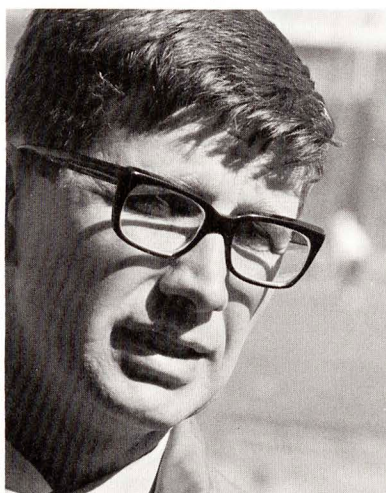

Coach Slusarek fielded the largest squad to vie for the Porker golf team.

Thirteen hopefuls proved to be a winning number for the Hogs as they made their presence known in Southwest Conference action.

Freshman Ricky McWhorter managed to place in the pole vault competition during the quadrangular meet in Fayetteville.

Coach Ed Renfrow

Track Team Looks Ahead to Future

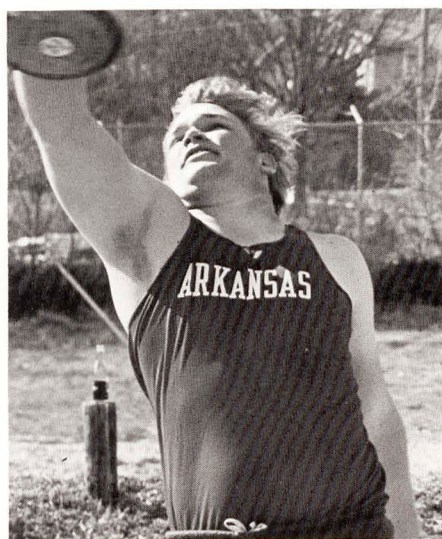

Armed with several new performers, the Arkansas Razorback track team sought recognition in the tough Southwest Conference during 1971. Miler Bobby Pruitt and speedster Robert Palmer led Coach Ed Renfrow's charges into the annual Arkansas Relays, held on March 27 in Razorback Stadium. Over twenty teams competed in the meet.

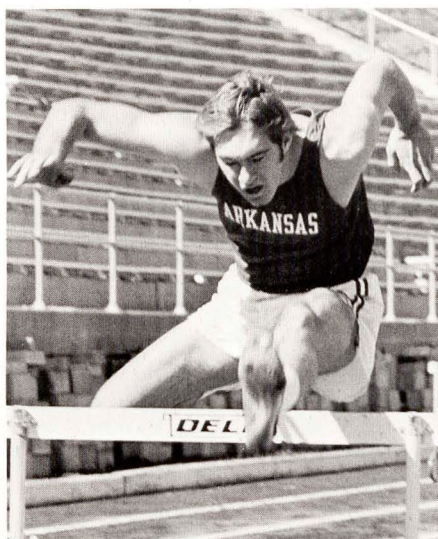

Robert Palmer always managed to give the Porkers a short-lived lead in the mile relay with his opening leg of the final event.

As Arkansas' young tracksters gained experience, the lead was a very rare sight for them against their seasoned and talented adversaries.

Freshman Gale Munger established new records in shot and discus events.

Excellent form and concentration are the keys to a good 440 intermediate hurdler.

With fast openings like this, Robert Palmer showed promise of becoming one of the premier sprinters in the SW Conference meet.

When two runners pair off, the individual battles begin with a new vigor, quite unlike that found in any other team competition.

Ed Fedosky, Head Coach

Hog Swimmers Improve Dual Meet Record

The Razorback swimming squad took a big step toward gaining the Southwest Conference title with an improved 4-1 season mark. Seniors Peter Kingan and Mike Barden led the team to their biggest win of the season, 60-53 over Texas.

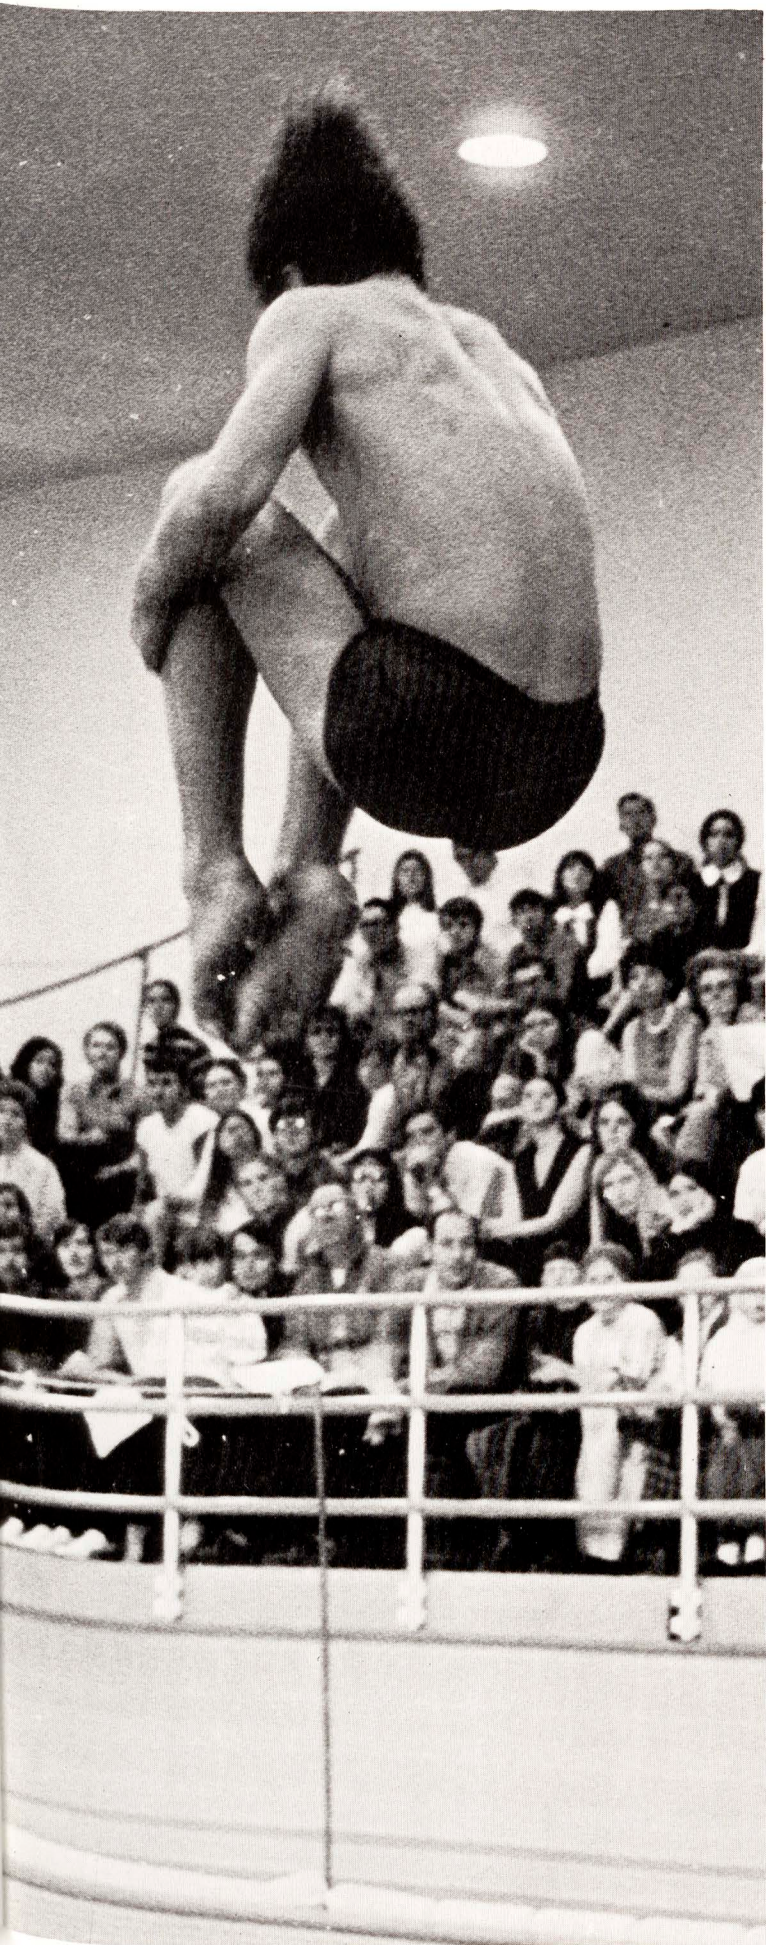

Always a close-knit group of athletes, the swimmers urge their teammates on to victory against the stubborn Texas Longhorns.

Body outstretched, an Arkansas sprinter begins the turbulent road to victory.

Giving both encouragement and information, the lap counter is important to Razorback distance ace Terry Kingan.

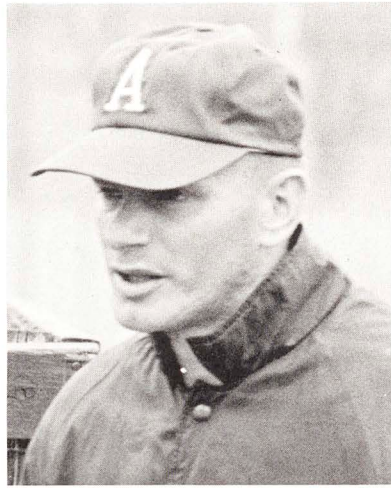

Divers like Richard Raybuck spend hours practicing alone for their performances at the University pool.

This twisting, turning, spinning dive, performed by freshman Richard Raybuck, delighted the audience at the meet with Texas.

The most grueling of all swimming strokes, the butterfly requires a great deal of strength and skill, as well as speed and stamina.

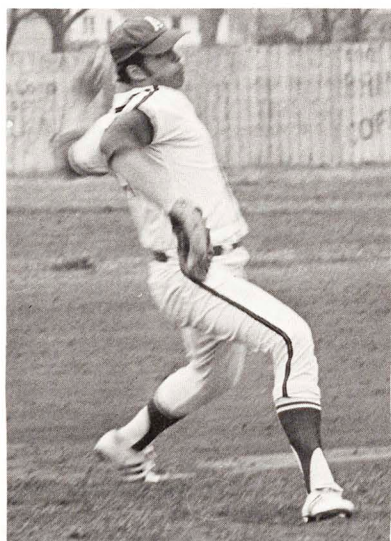

Coach Norm DeBryn

Porker Baseball Relies on Power Attack

Coach Norm DeBryn again led the Razor-back baseball team to a winning season in the diamond sport. The Hogs were able to combine a dangerous hitting attack to go with their improving field game and young pitching staff. Several of the Porker Power sluggers, led by seniors Mike Pryor and H. A. Scott propelled the Hogs to success.

During the entire season, Bruce Mitchell proved he could handle the shortstop position like a veteran. Mitchell will return for 1972.

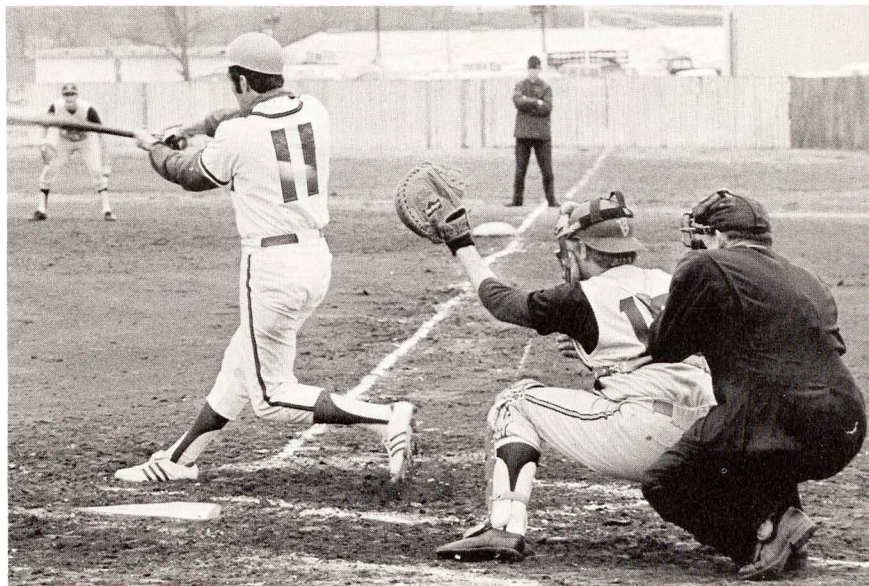

Although young, the Hogs' pitchers proved tough as the season continued.

Despite the cold weather of early springtime, the Hogs' feelings were warm as they proved victorious over Buena Vista Pioneers.

Freshman Bruce Mitchell accounted for a great number of the Porker's runs throughout 1971.

Greg Palka played an important role at first base during '71 as the accent was on youth.

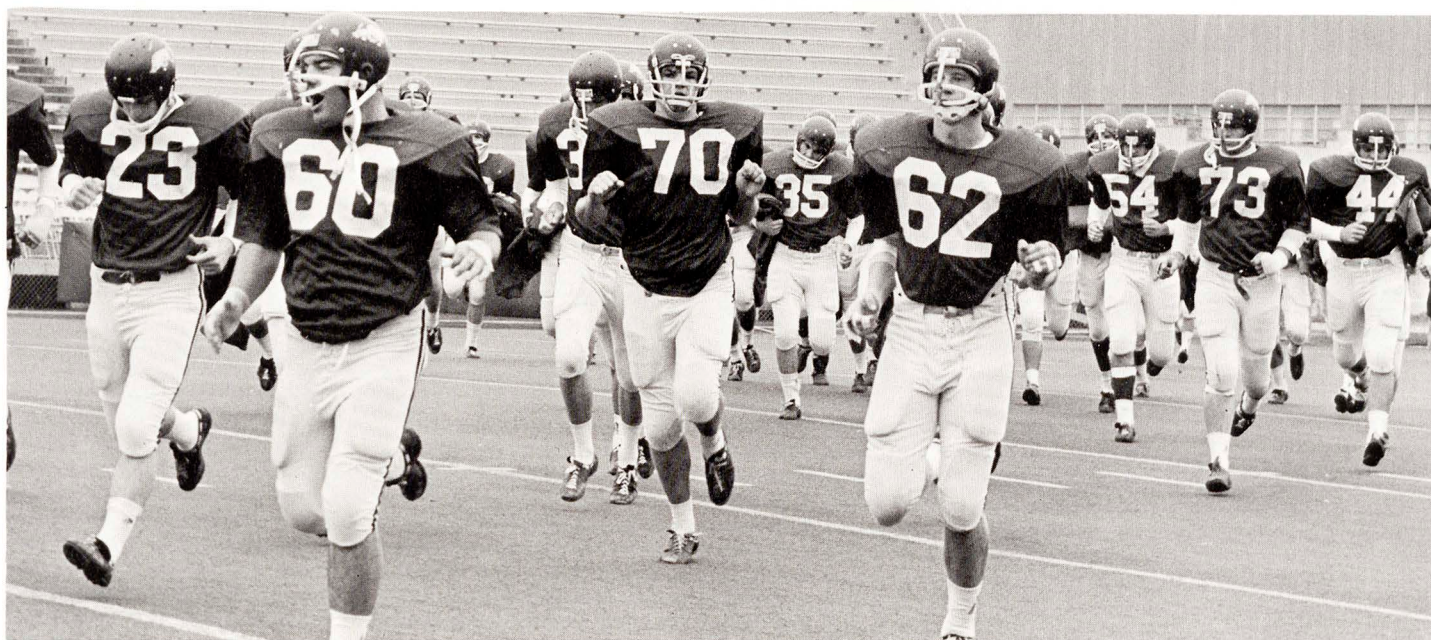

Outfielder H. A. Scott displayed his aggressive style of playing against the Buena Vista Pioneers as the Hogs swept a doubleheader.

Freshman footballers have a very unique comradeship among themselves during their first season for the Hogs.

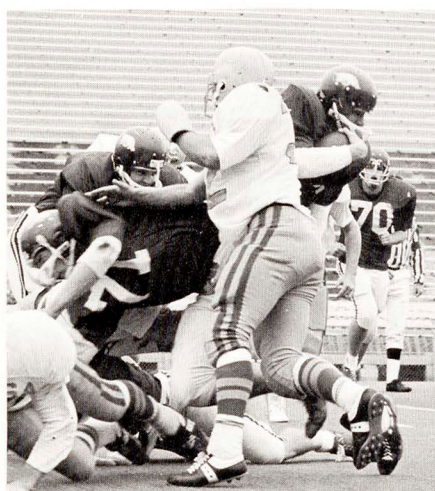

Freshmen Post 3-2 Season Record

By posting a 3-2 season mark, the Shoats of Coach Wilson Matthews kept the tradition of a winning freshman football team alive. Excelling for the Shoats was Danny Rhodes, All-Southwest Conference linebacker.

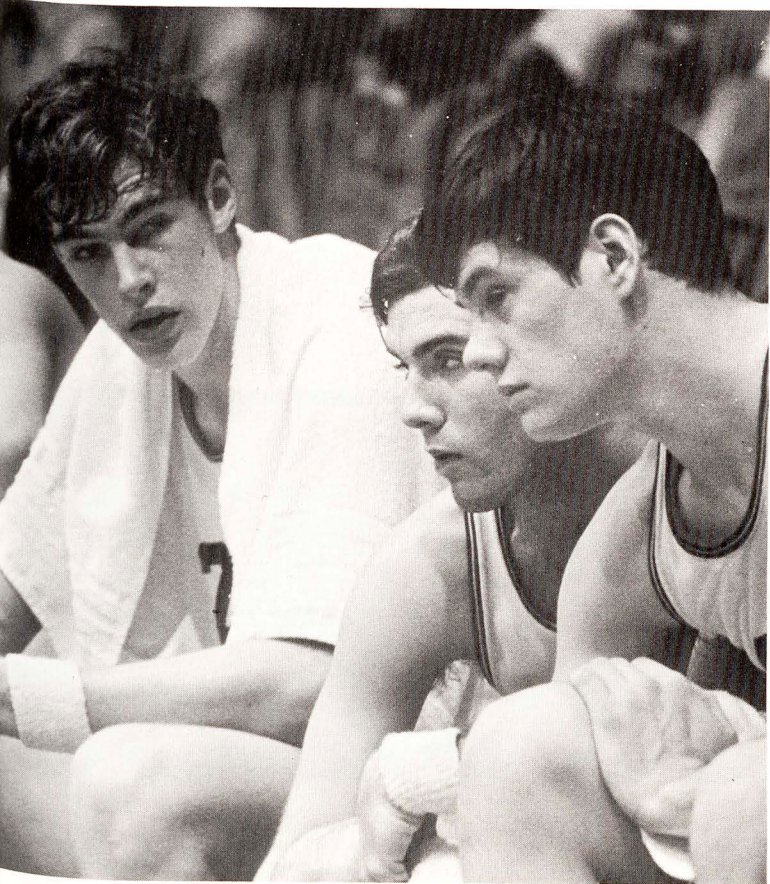

Wearing the Razorback red in Fayetteville for the first time, the Shoats upheld a winning tradition against the Tulsa University freshmen.

Returning a punt for a touchdown was the big highlight of the year for freshman defensive safety Clark Irwin of Springdale, Arkansas.

Fully recovered from early season injuries, Terry McFarland stood out against Tulsa.

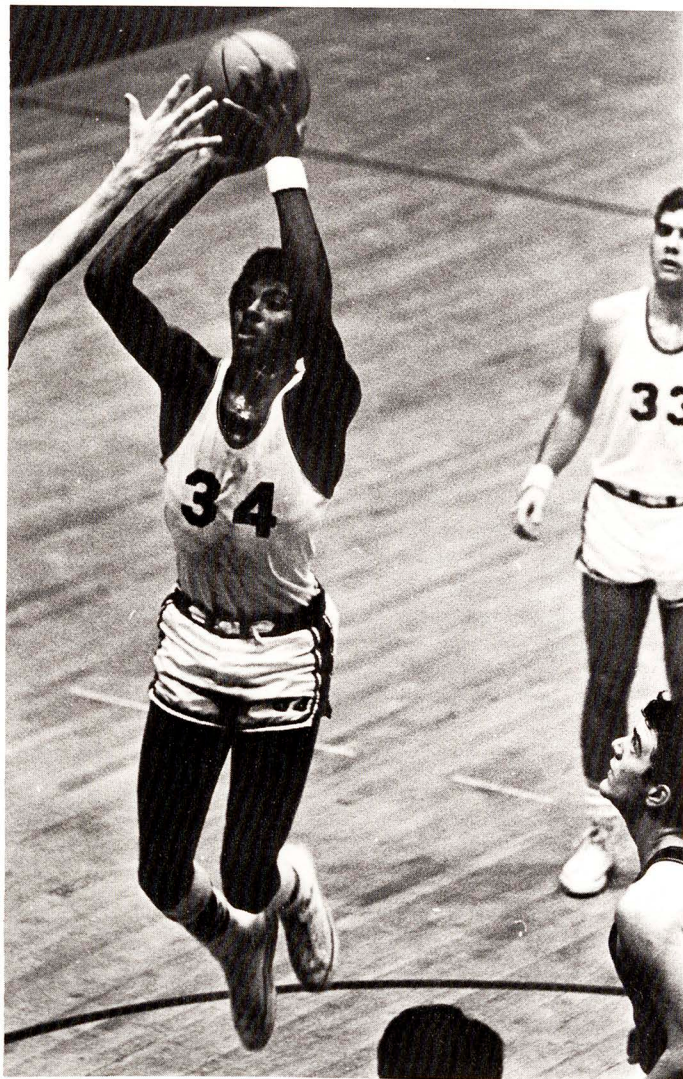

This trio of Dennis White, Bruce Mitchell, and Roger Spears proved to be an invaluable asset to the Shoats, the only undefeated Arkansas freshman team.

In his initial season as head coach of the Shoats, Tommy Matthews led the freshmen to their most productive year.

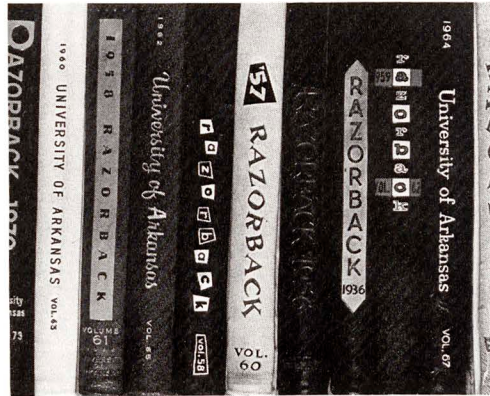

Shootin' Shoats Record Undefeated Season

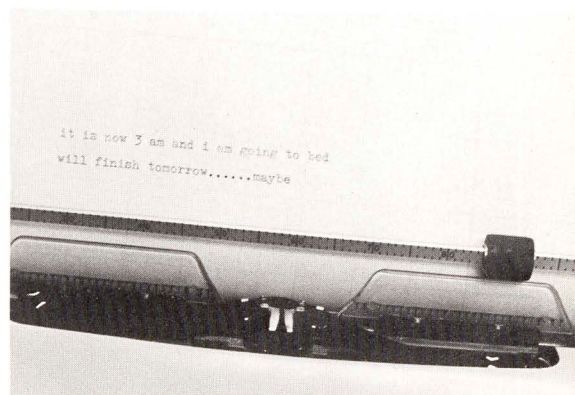

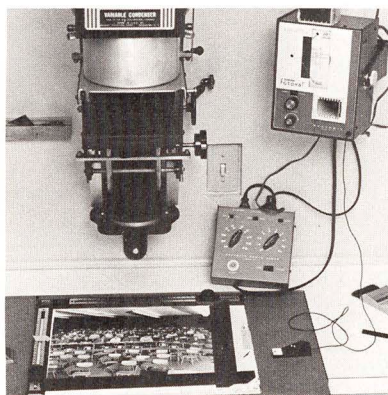

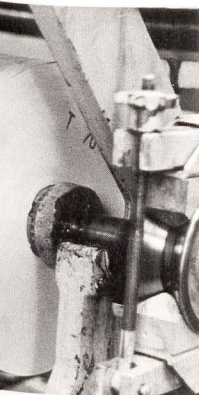

The Shoats became the winningest freshman team in Southwest Conference basketball history as they averaged well over 100 points a contest while in route to a 16-0 season. The nine returnees should be a solid nucleus for the Razorbacks of the future.

Big Dean Tolson brought the crowd to its feet time after time with this type of jump shot. Tolson was the leading Shoat scorer.

The 1971 Razorback

As a graphic presentation of the character of the University, the Razorback captures the campus, the students, the thoughts, the ideas, the moods, the events, the color, and the texture of our University and preserves it for the future. The members of the staff have brought together their individual talents and ideas to create the 1971 Razorback.

The Arkansas Traveler

The ARKANSAS TRAVELER, the campus student newspaper, is composed of kids who like to work and have fun, often at the same time. But despite this, the TRAVELER has accomplished its purpose—to keep the student body informed. This fact cannot be disputed. The TRAVELER does not rely on innumerable columns or editorial opinion, for this is too easily done and will never make a paper good. This is why news coverage and feature angles are the main body of the TRAVELER.

Board of Publications

The ARKANSAS TRAVELER and the Razorback are responsible to the Board of Publications. The Board, chaired by Associated Student Government vice-president Jim Sloan, reports its actions to the Student Senate. This year the Board took a more responsible approach to its duties. The most far-reaching action taken by the board involved the Who's Who selection, traditionally the sole responsibility of the Razorback. Other action involved the selection of editors and distribution of the yearbook.

The Board meets regularly in one of the conference rooms in the Administration Building to select editors and carry out business.

The Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal is published quarterly by the School of Law and the Arkansas Bar Association, acting through a non-profit corporation founded in 1947. A copy of the Law Review is sent to every member of the Arkansas Bar Association. In addition, the Law Review has nationwide circulation, primarily to law schools and law libraries. Student members of the Law Review receive credit hours toward graduation for their work on the Review.

To become a staff member, a student must meet a minimum grade point requirement and submit an article of acceptable quality for publication. Student articles are classified into three categories: Recent Cases, Notes, and Legislative Notes. The articles are under the supervision of the Student Editorial Board and the faculty advisor. In addition, lead articles are written by judges, lawyers, and law professors.

What is the Grapevine? Sometimes it's news. Sometimes it's not. Many folks enjoy the columns, the features, the photographs, and, of course, the editorials. Others like the fact that the Grapevine is not officially connected with the University. Unlike the TRAVELER, the Grapevine is totally student run and student controlled.

"Free at last" is the rallying cry of the off campus student who escaped the campus syndrome to find herself.

In order to unite students who do not live in organized houses, to provide social events for members, and to keep students informed of all campus activities, the Off Campus Students Association got underway this year. Membership in the Association is open to all students who live off campus.

Residence Hall Living

Appearing as a cold mass of steel and brick with innumerable windows, a dorm looks lonely and very impersonal. However, each of those lifeless windows represents the lives of two people who differ in appearances, interests, and personalities. All of the rooms are identical units when they are empty, but each of them becomes a reflection of the personality and activities of the variety of people within, not the building itself, and this where the uniqueness of residence hall living exists.

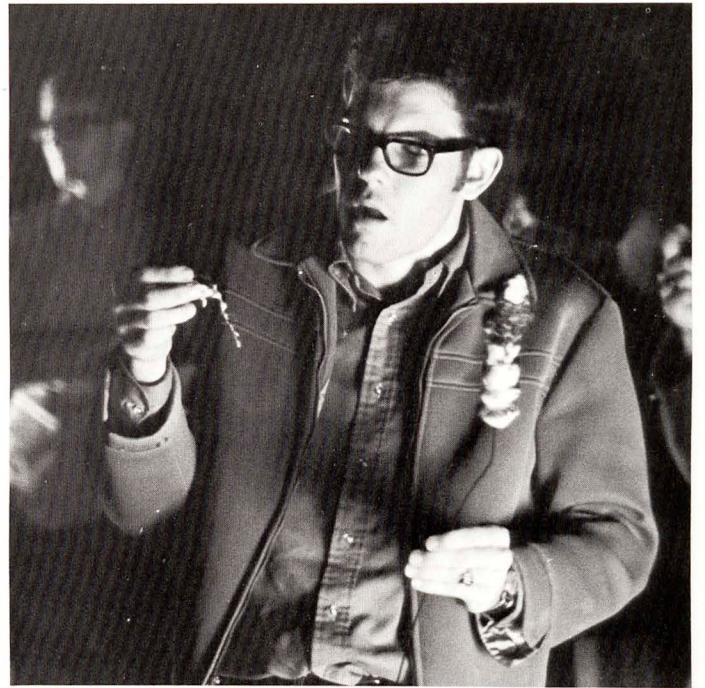

"Gee, I hope it's from home and has money in it."

The great diversity of people living in the residence hall is conducive to the sharing of ideas, thoughts, and the opinions of others.

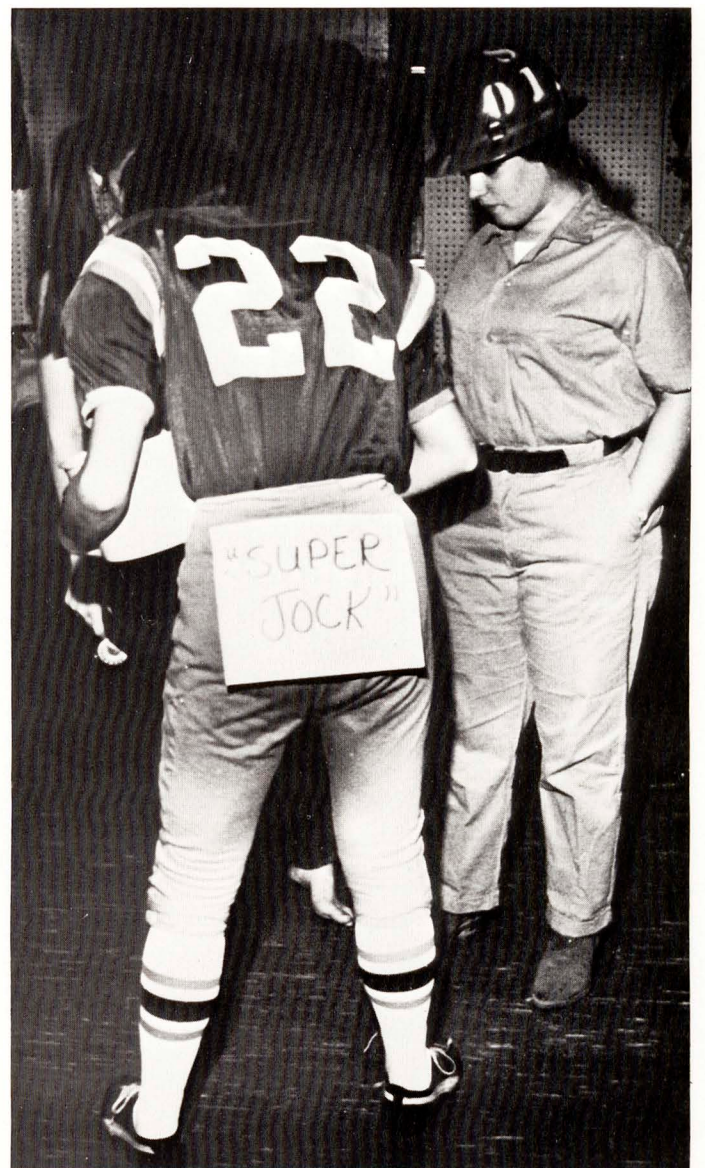

One can never tell when a common ordinary fire drill will turn into an uncommon marsh-mellow roast between dorms.

In the dorms there is always a party for this and a party for that.

Dorms have a lot of strange parties and have a lot of fun.

Tears of love rejected.

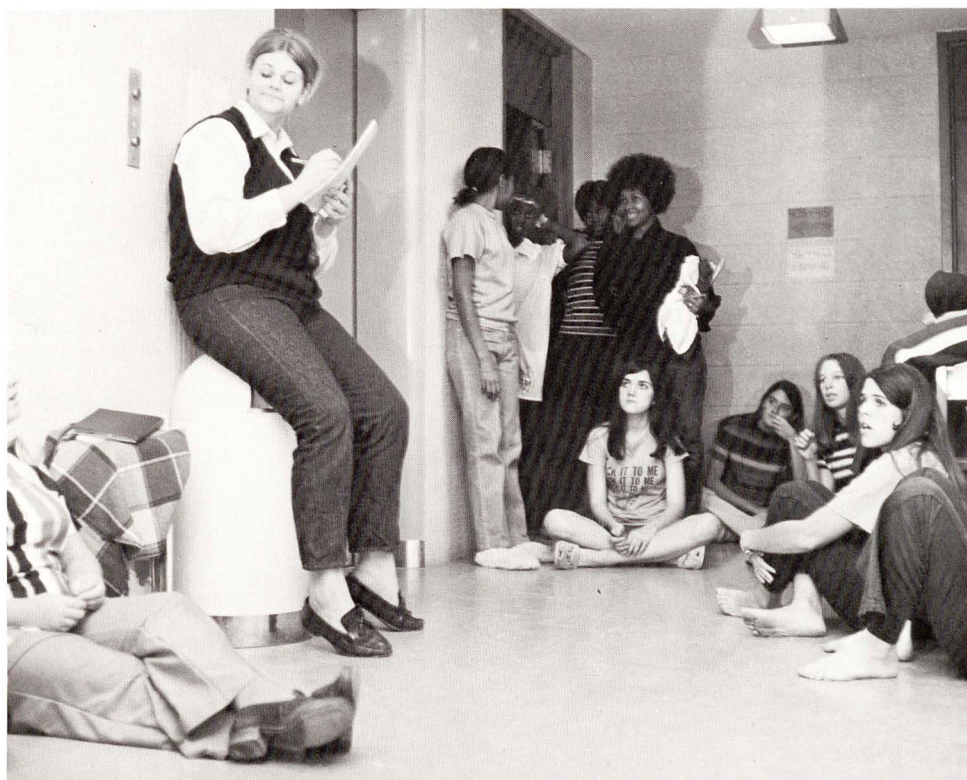

PDA . . . What's that?

After a solemn candlelight all hell breaks loose.

Want to study, wash your hair, or sleep? Forget it . . . there's another floor meeting.

Women's lib election is more interesting and shorter than a floor meeting.

The solitude . . . loneliness . . . togetherness . . . helping each other through one of the most important and exciting four years of one's life.

Gregson Hall

Pride was the backbone for Gregson Hall this year. Pride in the dorm's heritage, intramural achievements, and helping the needy were areas in which Gregson excelled. They have, through the years, compiled an impressive record of championships in their class in intramural sports, as well as maintaining an extremely high grade point average.

Wilson Sharp

The key word among all Arkansas athletes is brotherhood. The jocks hosted such events as home game receptions, banquets, spontaneous pep rallies, not to mention their weekly adventures on the playing field.

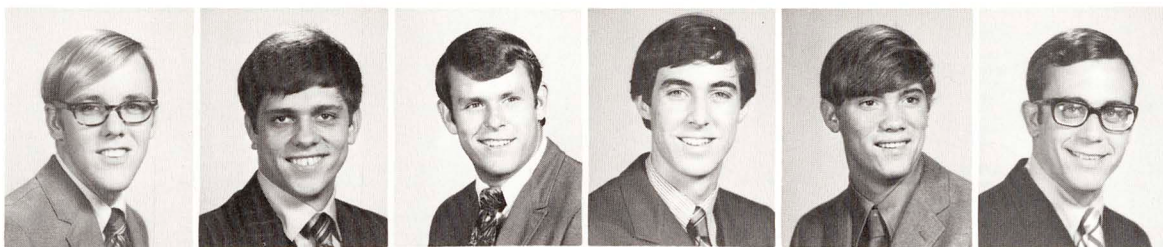

After hard practices the team members relax.

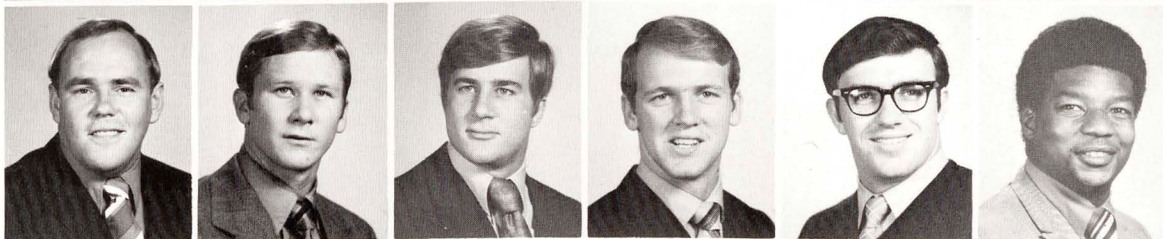

It takes plenty of hard work to make an athlete, and weight lifting is just a part of the program.

4-H House

The 4-H House has the distinction of being the smallest house on campus and still being a residence hall. Being independently owned by the Arkansas Extension Homemakers, 4-H actively participates in University programs while its size allows residents to be a close-knit group.

Along with their studies, 4-H girls also allow time for the work.

Even after a hard day of school, some girls have energy to make plans for the upcoming weekend.

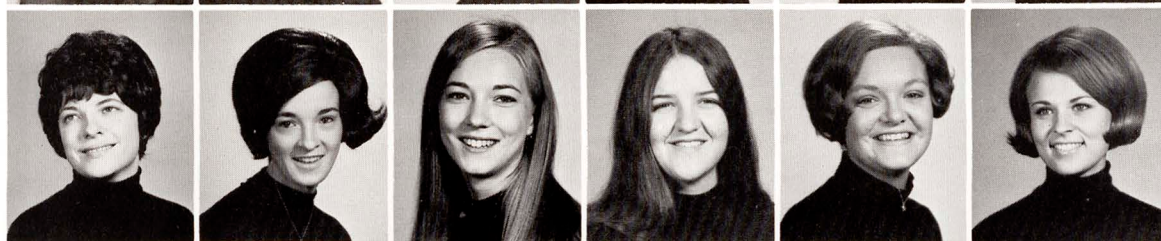

Frequent house meetings keep the complicated business of operating a residence hall in control.

The Greek Life is

... after a week of difficult rush decisions, you finally have a home in which to live,
study, and play.

...going on a walkout and leaving a pledge sister behind.

...reciting the Greek alphabet twice before your match goes out.

...finishing mail duty before the members return from class.

...popping for the pledge final and the thrill of being initiated.

...finding your front yard toilet-papered.

...decorating for the big party with a big pre-party.

...knowing and sharing the moments of pain as well as the moments of happiness and working together to unite the Greek system through bonds of friendship.

...looking back and seeing how you have helped your sorority to change.

...the feeling of emptiness after graduation
knowing that you will no longer be a part of it.

Alpha Chi Omega

From its beginnings in 1885 as a sorority for music students, Alpha Chi Omega has grown to include more than just the sisterhood of singing. The appearance of the Great Pumpkin at the Halloween party, the rendition of the traditional Christmas story by a senior skit, and the surprise bridal showers at closing hours all highlighted the year. Special house projects, particularly dance and game decorations, helped everyone share the fun of working together for the good of the whole house.

Delta Delta Delta

National traditions bring to Tri-Delt a personality of her own, and at the same time strengthen the closeness of her membership through mutual enjoyment and shared participation by all her members. This year members of Delta Iota chapter held a mock rush party in honor of their alumnae and Delta's Mothers' Club for their willingness to support the collegiate chapter. The year also brought the scholarship dinner.

Delta Gamma

DG's inaugurated another year by welcoming their new foreign exchange student, Sara Corti, from Italy. Alpha Omega chapter has been very active working with its foundation, Sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind. In the fall, a dinner was held for the foreign exchange students on campus and for the faculty. Also, DG's worked with the Lion's Club selling Christmas trees and collecting eye glasses for the blind. At Christmas time, a joint party was held with Sigma Nu.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Kappa Alpha Theta, the most recent sorority to settle on this campus, welcomed a new housemother, Mrs. Lucille Smith, this year. The popular saying of Delta Nu chapter "Unlike in looks and arts, but alike within their hearts" truly applies to the Theta's. Jeri Donaldson was selected Miss Sorority Pledge Queen this fall to get things going for the Theta's second hundred years, while Bev Sams became President of Cardinal Key. Christmas time brought caroling by the fireside, and at Easter the Theta's participated in the March of Dimes and Easter Seal Drives in Fayetteville.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Kappa celebrated her 100th anniversary on October 13th of this year. Activities of the week for Centennial Celebration included birthday parties, a banquet, and reviews of the past summer's national convention. Kappa was especially privileged in being able to donate over one million dollars to various phases of rehabilitation work and research. Also at that convention, U of A's Gamma Nu chapter received the honor of having the best pledge class program in the nation.

Pi Beta Phi

The oldest national fraternity has begun a new tradition by serenading all the fraternities and presenting them with pumpkins at Halloween time inscribed with their Greek letters. This along with their ChiO Wake-up and breakfast each year have proven to be great successes. Not a year can go by without the Dad's Day skit for those Pi Phi pops. Another tradition is the annual Christmas party with Santa Claus and gifts for the needy children in Northwest Arkansas.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Epsilon chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha devoted a good deal of their year to helping others in the community. They helped the mentally retarded children with their music program by teaching them music on instruments which they built for the children. They also contributed to the school's building fund by donating the profits made on a spring stationery sale. At Christmas time the Zetas brought cheer to the Veterans' Hospital with skits and songs. Zetas also united to win the homecoming decoration contest.

Promotion of intersorority relations is the chief aim of Panhellenic Council. This council, which represents active members of all sorority chapters, is composed of the president and two representatives from each sorority. Officers are determined by a system of rotation among the nine sororities on campus. This year's council has initiated changes in rush and eligibility rules, the fall rush schedule, and the rush book, as well as providing orientation sessions. Panhellenic Council also works with IFC to promote Greek Week activities, and honors three deserving women with academic scholarships.

Officers: Pat Ross, Secretary; Kathy Parker, Treasurer; Liz Darrow, President.

IFC Seeks Recruitment Revision

Interfraternity Council embarked on a program of revision—revision of current recruitment procedures by seeking the addition of summer pledging, and revision of pledge programs with greater emphasis being placed on meeting the demands of the freshman entering the University. Both have produced unparalleled changes in fraternities on this campus. Sweeping changes in some houses saw the abandonment of a housemother for houseparents and initiation of pledges before semester's end. Some say the Greek system is dying. IFC and its member fraternities seem to have other ideas.

Officers: Bartus Gray, Treasurer; Curtis Bradbury, President; Joe Smith, Secretary; Bill Garner, Rush Chairman.

ACACIA

As the University changes, so must the Greek system. For this reason, Acacia has seen fit to improve and enhance its various house programs. Acacia has been the first fraternity to change to houseparents instead of a housemother. Ken and Brenda Jones have added a youthful touch to this position, along with a willingness to help the fraternity in any way they can. Other changes include no organized study hall for the pledges and a continuation of the no-hazing pledge program. In the social tradition, Acacia sponsored its great End of the World Party, the Sack Dance, and the Spring Black and Gold Formal.

Alpha Gamma Rho

Alpha Gamma Rho remains the only social-professional fraternity on campus. Deriving its main organizational strength from the fact that each member is studying in a related field of agriculture, Alpha Gamma Rho fosters in its members a deeper, stronger basis of brotherhood. Activities for the year included a Christmas party for underprivileged children, parties after each home football game, the Pink Rose Formal, and the Outer Limit Party in the spring. Alpha Gamma Rho has truly a very well-rounded fraternity program.

Alpha Kappa Lambda

The men of AKL are diversified in their interests and way of life because of the atmosphere they live in. They are from all parts of the state and nation, and cannot be classified as stereotyped individuals. On the social side of life, AKL's are unique. They enjoy such functions as the annual Pajama Party and the Go To Hell Party in the later part of the year.

To round out the fraternity, they help to promote leadership through many campus activities.

FarmHouse

FarmHouse is a fraternity dedicated to the building of men. Its atmosphere enables a pledge to easily make the transition to active membership through their pledging program. It builds the pledge to learn to respect the fraternity and the brotherhood that it exemplifies.

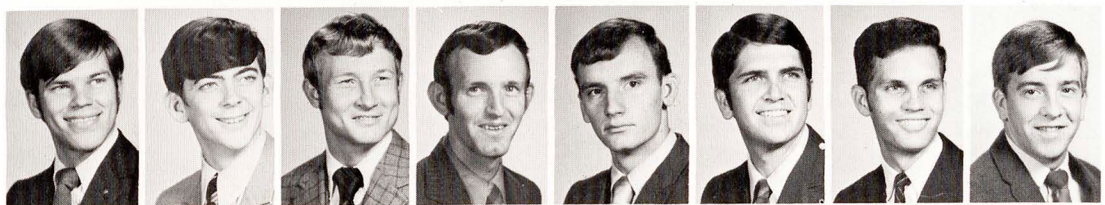

FarmHouse also helps to build its members through teaching them good scholarship. This can be seen through the record that FarmHouse has upheld for the past few years. They have been rated tops in fraternity scholarship for many past semesters at the University of Arkansas.

Kappa Sigma

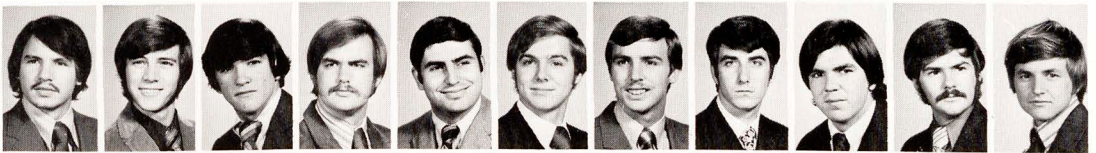

The Xi chapter of Kappa Sigma started the year off by adding a large pledge class to their ever-growing number of men. They had a very active social schedule with outings, beer busts, and their annual party —The Island Party—in the spring. In December, they had a Christmas party with the Kappa Sig Little Sisters for the orphaned children of the Fayetteville area.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha this year celebrated the second year of having a new addition to their house. To help fill this new addition, they obtained the largest pledge class on campus. On the social side, Lambda Chi held the second annual Sorority Pledge Queen Contest. This event was very successful, and Miss Jeri McDonald, KAΘ, was crowned queen. They also had many informal dances after the home football games, beer busts during the spring, and ended with the annual Playboy Party.

Phi Delta Theta

We, the members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, dedicate these two pages in memory of Michael Lewis, who died on December 23, 1970, in a tragic automobile accident.

At Phi Delta Theta, the goal of every member is a common bond to strive for the very best. And thus, individuality goes hand in hand with brotherhood. Our motto "All for one and one for all" is best exemplified by the virtues of all Phis: an everlasting friendship, the cultivation of sound learning, and the beauty of rectitude.

Within this lies our fraternity. . .

Phi Gamma Delta

With one-third of the members of the house from out-of-state, there is more diversification of attitudes than is found in most larger fraternities. The Fijis take pride in doing things differently—things like planting tulips in the front of the library, outings at the cave, campaigning during state elections, or screening nasty films in the house. Plans for a new house have been nearly finalized. Soon the Fijis will leave their home of three years and let the University take over all of the big white castle.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Inspired by the new ideas gathered at the fraternity's national convention, Alpha Zeta chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha begins its 67th year at the University of Arkansas with a new approach to pledging, with emphasis on education toward membership. Pikes are changing with the seventies through the areas of chapter operations, all designed to meet the challenge of a more liberal college environment. With these goals in mind, the men of Pi Kappa Alpha are helping the Greek system to progress in the decade to come.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon have pride in their members' leadership abilities. A group helping to make SAE a more closely knit group is the Little Sisters of Minerva. These girls were tremendous with rush, and helped with a party for orphaned children. The SAE's also took out time from their campus activities to hold the annual Red Davis Orphan Party. Later on in the year the Alphs held their formal and the Catfish Row Party.

Sigma Chi

Sigma Chi was named to top fraternity of the year by IFC, becoming the first recipient of the McClellan-Fulbright Award in recognition of this honor. The Skis have consistently had a fine record of academic excellence since their founding in 1905. The pledge program stresses scholarship as the first responsibility of the pledge. Sigma Chi sponsored a basketball tournament for the elementary school age boys from the four-state area.

Sigma Nu

The Sigma Nus started with their annual Sadie Hawkins Party. Susan Gentle was selected as the 1970-71 Miss Daisy Mae. She goes on to further competition at Dogpatch U. S. A. later on in the year. In other aspects of college life, Nu's have been instrumental in seeing that needy children are taken care of for the holiday season. Sigma Phi Epsilon

Back of the Sig Ep house there is a hole in the ground that is always filled with ice cold water. It remains as a reminder to any brother who is considering getting dropped, pinned, or worse. For those who make the fatal mistake, it means the "big splash." After realizing the near fatalness of this move, many a man has been saved by this tradition. Every Sig Ep, sometime in his stay, has gotten a long distance phone call in the middle of the night, only to be drowned in the ice water.

Sigma Pi

It has long been the aim of Sigma Pi to provide the best possible atmosphere for pursuit of academic goals. Besides its emphasis on scholarship, the Alpha Sigma Chapter is active in civic affairs and community projects. Pi's aided the Salvation Army in its drive for contributions during the holiday season. The social agenda at the Pi house includes numerous beer busts, the spring formal, and the annual theme party, the Singapore Sling.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

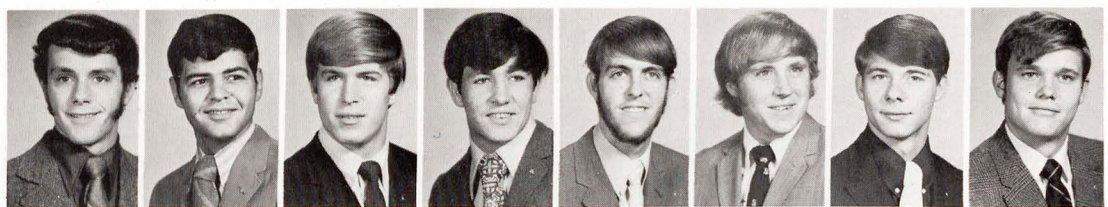

TKE has been helping to lead the Greek system to progress with contemporary thought on human dignity. In the house, the word "pledge" has been demoted to a purely perfunctory term. Teke pledges are treated as men in every aspect of the word, merely passing through a period of learning about the fraternity and the meaning of its brotherhood. On the social side, Teke has the Night in the Islands Party, and dances after the football games. They also held a Sunday dinner for the underprivileged children of Fayetteville.

Karl Lindquist, President; Mike Barham, Vice-President; Bill Eoff, Secretary; Bob Donaghe, Treasurer.

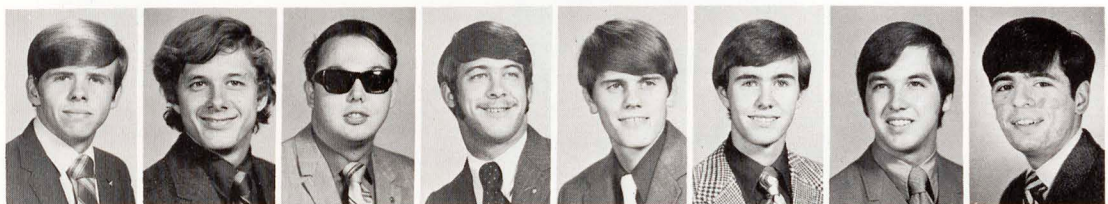

Forrest Jacobi, Rick Jones, Vernon Lee, Thomas Lewis, Karl Lindquist, Dennis Luter, Mark Martin, Phillip Morrison.

David Alexander, Phillip Ball, David Ballenger, Charles Batson, Don Bradshaw, William Bruce, Jerry Burnett, Michael Childers.

Theta Tau

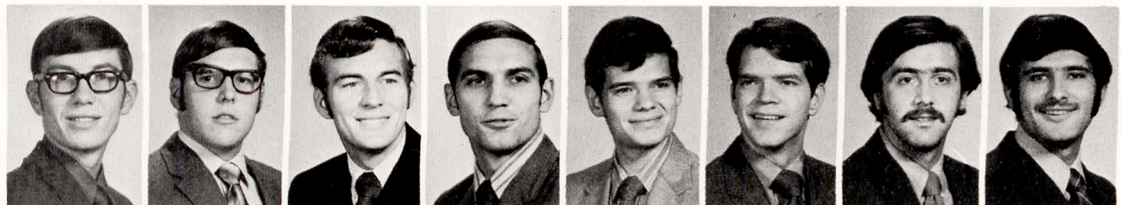

Theta Tau is the only professional engineering fraternity on campus that enjoys a real social life. Its members are more brotherly in a true fraternal sense than the other engineering societies. Their choice of membership is also different than most fraternities. They not only look at the rushee, but they take a look at what he has done on the Hill. The pledges, while learning of the brotherhood, are expected to maintain good scholarship, while affiliated with the fraternity.

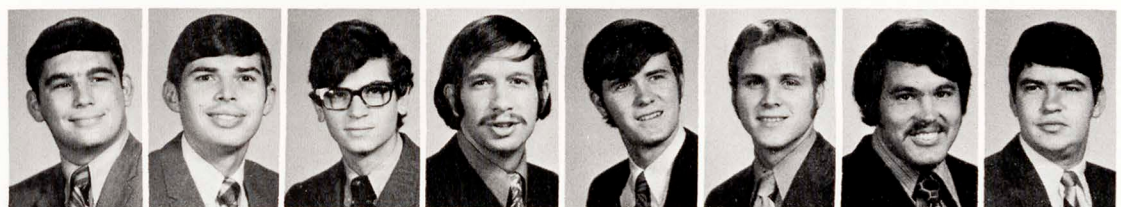

The Taus moved to newer headquarters on Cleveland Street. The new accommodations are much larger and nicer than the house they had lived in for years.

Harry Elrod, President; Charles Marlin, Vice-President; Ron Rhodes, Recording Secretary; Larry Waits, Corresponding Secretary; Mike Childers, Treasurer.

Charles Huggins, John Jenkins, Charles Lawrence, Glen McKuin, Charles Marlin, Lynn Oates, Marc Paulson, Dennis Perry.

*four seasons . . .
year after year,
i, Old Main, have seen it all,
and yet, i have seen only the beginning.*

University Hall. That's what the Administration's calling her. They stuck "U Hall" on their racing forms. U Hall! Like the trailer company. Freshman asks, "Where's U Hall?" Senior says, "They mean Old Main." Frosh must go to language lab, or so he thinks. Actually there's no lab the first day, but he doesn't know that. Senior saunters toward the Library—for a cold one.

The freshman is late for his non-class. He walks toward Old Main. Walks up senior walk. Treads on his father's name. He's suddenly at the back door, which is really the front door. Stares a minute and talks to himself (some frosh do that). "Giant doors and faded plaques. What a hell of a relic." He climbs up granite steps, bevelled by the footsteps of students here and those long dead. Frosh doesn't understand why they don't fix the entrance.

Inside, the newcomer heads for the elevator. Elevator lumbers up. He goes to language lab and is told to go away. Frosh takes the stairs this time and scrutinizes Old Main closer. "Ceilings ridiculously high. And it stinks, smells. And it's full of cubbyholes. English office 202XZ?" The cynic goes to the basement and continues his pratter.

"Machine accounting, computer center, all empty offices. Vacant. Zero." Frosh reddens. "So this is Old Main, this ancient smelly relic is the core of this campus." Right, frosh. Though you wouldn't understand. Old Main is more than mortar and must. It's a hundred years of teachers and lawyers and chemists and journalists and engineers and physicists and geologists and botanists. It's war and war and depression and more war and more. Chimes ring in honor of graduates who served in all wars. Yet peace is the message of the moment, scribbled high and red in the corridor.

Paradoxes. That she is. Trilobites and mastodon tusks repose on floor four (museum), while man's latest technology, a "Controlled Environment Incubator Shaker," nestles in the basement's catacombs. She's stately and formal, like the front page of the New York Times, but her towers don't match the original plans (Was her foreman really drunk when he read the blueprints? Or did the ex-Yankee builders merely make the North Tower higher to show who won the war?).

One thing's for sure, though. She was built of Northwest Arkansas, her red brick fired from Fayetteville clay. Her brown foundation sandstone was cut near where she stands, and all her hidden boards and beams were once Benton County trees.

From the day she was finished, in 1875, she was the University. There was always a dynamic Old Main inside those stately walls. Oil chandeliers gave way to Edison's wonder (the dynamo reposed in the basement and not downtown). Radiators replaced wood-burning fireplaces. Steel and concrete stairways, overlaid with tile, superseded hardwood—of oak and ash and black walnut. A giant half-ton bell (bought at one dollar a pound) gave way to an electronic class tone.

The work within her rooms also changed with time. In her first years, she was a home—with living quarters for faculty, janitors, and some students. Then, of course, she was an office and classroom building, but also a chapel, library, museum, gymnasium, bookstore, band room, engineering lab, and armory. Over the years, a dozen departments moved in or out. Eventually, she became an administration building—an ivy-covered "ivory tower." Then the establishment left. Some people came and pulled the ivy off her walls (they said it was weakening her brick). Her big rooms were segmented into tiny cubicles for English and the languages. Bacteriology moved rats in for experiments and everyone asked, "What's the smell?"

Still, in spirit she's the core of this campus, the symbol of the University. Still she has meaning that grads, thrust into life's pressure cooker, try to recapture. To the freshman she may be a decrepit relic. And even the senior may stagger by and curse her crooked towers. For loving Old Main is a slow-timed thing. Fondness for her grows with years like the pages of an annual.

Frosh stomps away from Old Main, trips down senior walk, treads on his father's name. But he will be a wiser man someday.

a toast to the longest,

These last two pages are always the most difficult to write because I don't know what I really want to say. Perhaps it would be best to begin by thanking all the people to whom I am especially indebted to for their help and moral support during the year. Mr. R. C. Walker of Tulsa is the one person I am most indebted to. Even though his company no longer does any work for the Razorback, Mr. Walker still calls to see how I am doing and asks if I need any help. To him I am eternally grateful. Larry Pirnie contributed to the success of this book without really trying. In the twenty-four hours that I visited with him last spring, I learned more about yearbooks than I had learned before or since. Nowmen Glenn and Chuck Lowe were also very helpful when I needed some advice.

On my own staff, Henry Woods was the driving force behind everyone else on the staff. I only needed to mention that something needed to be done and he made sure that it was done soon. I relied heavily upon the three associate editors throughout the year and they almost always came through when we had a deadline to meet. Cathy ChiO was one of the few who could be depended upon to come by the office everyday. After she completed her section, hardest year of them all, and to the staff that helped me.

she helped everyone else with their section. I must mention the terror of Razorback Hall, Marilyn Bright, who kept me amused throughout the year. I wish I had room to mention everyone on the staff who worked the long hours for small compensation.

Several people in the Administration helped out and deserve special thanks. Everybody in the business office went out of their way to help us. Mr. Rinnert and Mr. Chappell gave us more attention than we deserved and it was appreciated. Mr. Talley of the Physical Plant put up with our special requests for tours through the rafters of Old Main and all he asked for was a cup of coffee, which I still owe him. Bob Barnes of the Arkansas Union was always cooperative and ready to do anything he could to help us out. I only wish that he had a vote on the Board of Publications.

Fortunately we were not burned out of the building this year, but other disasters struck. I won't go into detail since I would probably be sued for libel. To those of you who opposed the Razorback or worked against us this year, you don't deserve the copy you are reading. Give it to someone who will appreciate it and enjoy it.

The illustrated index was a way for Doug and myself to publish some of the good pictures we have taken over the years that haven't been published before. The index is usually dull and uncreative; this year it is different.

Gaebale is not included in this book; instead of being the first weekend in May as is tradition, this year it was scheduled for the third weekend in May which is five days before the book was supposed to be delivered to the campus. Hopefully, future Gaebale directors will take this into consideration when selecting a date.

After four and a half years, it is going to be difficult to quit doing a job that has become a habit. I shall enjoy the afternoons drinking with the other has-beens like Ann Pride, Jerry Glover, and Doug Frank. We have all made student publications a part of our life and tried to make student publications a little better. It's time for them "youngsters" to take over now.

EDITOR

The 1971 RAZORBACK was printed by offset lithography and bound by The Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas. Printing plates were made from negatives utilizing a 150-line gray contact screen. The four color process negatives were made by Peerless Engravers, Inc. of Little Rock, Arkansas. The cover was manufactured by Universal Bookbindery, Inc. of San Antonio, Texas. The individual studio portraits were made by Rappoport Studios, New York, New York. The endsheets were printed on Simpson Lee 65 Lb. Ivory Telemark cover paper. The opening gatefold section was printed on Simpson Lee 70 Lb. Ivory Telemark text paper. The rest of the book is printed on Warren's 80 Lb. Lustró Dull. Body copy was set in 12 point Melior, the cutlines were set in 8 point Helvetica, and the heads were set in 24 point Melior. Type was set by Fastypesetters of Little Rock, Arkansas. The introduction and division pages were designed and photographed by Gary G. Larsen. Opening sketch of Old Main and all other art by Susan Larsen. Opening section prose by Cathy Bleiweiss. Cover design by Susan Larsen. All photography by the Razorback photography staff.
